Czechs Plea For Peace

Catholics, Reds Lock In Battle

PRAGUE, Czechovakia — Czechoslovak communist leaders, apparently shocked by bloody resistance from angry Catholic peasants, appealed Sunday for "peace and calm" in the nation's church-state war.

After a week's silence, government officials and the controlled press confirmed and gave details of fighting between Slovak Catholics and communist police who attempted to seize village priests.

A cabinet minister confirmed reports that peasant "minute men" armed with clubs and scythes were organized to "guard their priests day and night" in strongly-Catholic Slovakia. Informed diplomatic and church sources said two policemen were fatally beaten in the eastern province last week.

The seriousness with which the communist government viewed the resistance was underlined by Premier Antonin Zapotocky's trip to Bratislava, capital of Slovakia.

From Bratislava, whose streets were lined with armed troops and police for the premier's visit, came a newspaper account of the rioting in Levoca.

PROTECT PRIEST

It began when the communist controlled local executive council summoned the town priest to plan the week end religious holiday program. When the priest, Father Vojtas, refused to appear, a council member was sent to bring him in. The priest's parishioners gathered to protect him and more Catholics hurried into town as the alarm spread.

The Catholics pounced upon the council official, beat him and freed the priest. Then the Catholics started roaming the village. When the communist council members emerged from their meeting they were beaten and kicked.

One of the Catholics was arrested in the melee and thereupon the crown marched to the police station and demanded his release.

When one official sought—according to the communist paper account—to enter the parish house to beg the priest to disperse the crowd, the Catholics beat him with clubs as a woman shouted:

"They are coming to take our priest. Kill them."

Two Dead In Rail Crash

OAKLAND, MD. —(AP)—A wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's main line yesterday killed two crewmen and sent hundreds of hogs from stock cars pouring through a heavily-wooded, mountain resort area.

The Diplomat, an east bound passenger train, plowed into the rear end of a stock train, near Deer Park, Md., about five miles east of here. The stock train had become stalled shortly before by a broken air hose.

Those killed were E. C. Fromhart, engineer of the Diplomat, and W. L. Hartman, its fireman, both of Keyser, W. Va.

Nobody on the passenger train, nor on the stock train, was injured seriously. Several persons were shaken up.

2 Dead, 2 Hurt In Plane Crash

COVINGTON, Ky. —(AP)— Two youths were killed and at least two other persons were injured yesterday as a light airplane crashed at Kenton lakes, 15 miles south of here, in view of more than 500 picnickers.

The plane, stalling at an altitude of 50 feet, fell on a picnic table where four persons had just started eating dinner. The two dead youths were identified as Edgar H. Olding, 22, of Latonia, the pilot of the plane, and Herschel Bruce Rice, 26, of Latonia, a passenger.

DISPUTE CLOSES BARS

Philippines Celebrating Independence

MANILA — (AP) — Pealing church bells and booming salutes at 9:15 a.m. today marked the third anniversary of the Philippines republic. It coincides with American Independence Day.

In Manila Bay, the U. S. heavy cruiser St. Paul fired a big-brother welcome to this former dependency.

On the Luneta, along Dewey boulevard, where martyrs to Philippine freedom died before a Spanish firing squad a half-century ago, an honor guard of American sailors, soldiers and marines marched past President Elpidio Quirino.

Dr. Peppard Dies After Heart Attack

Physician Stricken At West Fourth Home

Dr. David W. Peppard, 72, a Mansfield physician for 46 years, died unexpectedly Sunday about 2 p.m., after suffering a heart attack at his home, 93 West Fourth street.

Dr. Peppard

He made his home and maintained offices in the old Cappeller house.

A native of Crestline where he was born April 8, 1877, Dr. Peppard was graduated from Crestline high school and the Western Reserve Medical school. He attended the University of Vienna and served his interneship at Lakeside hospital, Cleveland.

He was a member of the American, Ohio State and Richland county medical associations, First Presbyterian church, Westbrook Country club, and the Mansfield Elks lodge.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Louise C. Peppard; one son, William D. of San Mateo, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Paul Wilmore, Mrs. O. J. Wilkinson, and Mrs. James Keyes, all of Los Angeles; seven grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Howard French, Bay Village.

Dr. and Mrs. Peppard recently returned from California where they visited their children.

British Reds Shout Against U. S. Dollars

LONDON — (AP) — Several hundred British communists paraded through streets of London's Mayfair Sunday chanting:

"No more dollars — please!"

Occasionally it was varied to "No more Yank dollars." There were shouts of "Homes for Britons but no barracks for Yanks" and "Send the yanks home."

As they demonstrated, American Superfortresses, taking part in final exercises testing British air defense, were tracing vapor trails in the sunny sky high over London.

It was an orderly procession, kept that way by a host of police on horses and motorcycles, afoot, in riot vans and in radio cars.

The communists said they had a dual purpose — to celebrate America's Independence day and to give U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas a letter protesting against the trial of 12 communists in the United States.

Bombs Level Radio Towers

At least 25 bombs were dropped by three four-engined Liberators that circled at 2,000 feet

The target area, about seven miles west of the city's center, was cordoned off by communist authorities. Entry of ambulances indicated some casualties, but workers said there had been only one death.

It was the second successive day of raids on Shanghai. Also earlier in the day, a lone F-51 Mustang fighter dropped two small bombs near the Lunghwa airfield, southeast of the city.

WHERE TALL CORN GROWS—Knee high corn by the Fourth of July gives promise of a bumper crop for farmers, but Sharon McFarland, 4, wonders what to expect if the corn is higher than a person's head. Of course the head isn't too high, but Sharon's dad, Leonard K. McFarland, State Route 178, near Five Points, planted his hybrid about the middle of May and watched it climb well above both the knee-high mark and Sharon's head.

7 Perish In Hotel Fire

Six Injured; 50 Guests Flee

ABERDEEN, WASH. —(AP)—At least seven persons were killed and six injured in a hotel fire here yesterday.

An undetermined number of persons, probably about 50, escaped uninjured. The small residential type hotel was destroyed. Cause of the fire was not know.

So far as could be learned immediately, the dead and injured all were from the Aberdeen region. Coroner E. F. Riley tentatively identified five of them:

Paul Myrh, the proprietor.

Mrs. Mary Kearns, 74.

Hugh Rogers, a paralytic.

A Mrs. Beshers and a Mrs. Abshire.

Fire Chief Charles A. Borum said seven bodies were found in the ruins after the flames had been extinguished. They were so badly burned idenification was difficult.

The hotel was a two-story brick and wood structure. The first floor was occupied by shops and guest rooms all were on the second floor. The fire spread so quickly the hotel stairway was cut off and all guests were trapped on the second floor.

Flays Communists

TOKYO — (AP) General MacArthur castigated communism Sunday as "national and international outlawery" and questioned its right to legal sanction.

11 Killed In First Half of '49

Traffic Fatalities Up 37 Per Cent

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Traffic accidents on Mansfield and Richland county streets and highways during the first half of 1949 claimed 37 per cent more lives than during the same period last year.

Eleven persons died in the first six months of this year as compared with eight last year.

Traffic accidents in Mansfield were up, too. A total of 772 were reported in the six-month period ended June 30. In the corresponding period last year there were 745 accidents. The city had only one fatality in the first half of the year.

Mansfield Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals and Cpl. John L. Bishop of the Mansfield state highway patrol post blamed carelessness for most of the accidents.

At he same time, both Cpl. Bishop and Commissioner Boals believe there's more safety consciousness among motorists and pedestrians than ever before.

"Every accident happens under different circumstances," according to Boals, "and many times accidents occur where they're least expected."

As far as the two men can determine, it's that brief interval in which a motorist or pedestrian is liable to relax that causes the trouble. Anyone using a highway for either foot or vehicle transportation must be on the alert constantly, they said.

WARNS PEDESTRIANS

"Pedestrians, too, have a definite responsibility when walking on a highway used by motor vehicles," Cpl. Bishop said.

"Good advice is to wear something white, maybe a white handkerchief tied around the arm next to the road. And always walk facing traffic. The pedestrian may also carry a flashlight for added protection," Bishop added.

Five of the 11 killed in the county during the past six months were pedestrians. Five persons lost their lives in traffic mishaps and one was killed at a grade crossing. According to fatality records, the heaviest death

Reds Pay Homage To Bulgarian Premier

SOFIA, BULGARIA — (AP) — The body of Premier Georgi Dimitrov was enroute to Sofia from Moscow Sunday aboard a funeral train draped with Bulgarian and Soviet flags. Moscow broadcasts, describing the departure from the Soviet capital where the Bulgarian communist died Saturday at the age of 67, said "tens of thousands of Muscovites formed a living corridor along Gorky street" as the body was borne to the train on a gun carriage.

Softer Water, Softer Hands

Clear Fork To Cut Soap Use In City

A sharp slash in soap expenses and less wear and tear on housewive's hands for 1950 were predicted today by City Engineer B. V. BeVier.

BeVier, in discussing the proposed filtration plant at the Clear Fork dam, said the plant will make the water 24 per cent softer than well water now in use, thus leading to a saving in actual cash for the household budget. In addition, the softer water will mean less time spent in washing clothes and dishes — a varitable boon to area housewives.

The filtration plant, still among the future projects at the dam, is expected to be completed by June, 1950.

There will be no water softener plant under present plans, but the filtration plant is designed so that a water softener plant could be added at anytime. BeVier said. That addition would reduce the hardness of Mansfield's water 69 per cent and, consequently giving that much suds, saving that much more soap and 'roughening' of housewivies hands.

Taste of the water will be about as it is now, the engineer stated, although he added that some persons with extremely sensitive taste may notice a slight difference when the water is warm. There'll be no difference in cold water.

Water routed through the filtration plant will be clarified with alum and balanced with soda ash. Chlorine, as an additional purifier, will be placed in the water at the pumping station.

BeVier said that treatment at the filtration plant will remove the iron from the water. Iron deposits in the water sometimes clog hot water tanks and turn the water rust-colored Acids that corrode pipes also will be removed.

City Faces Torrid Holiday

The heat wave that has broiled Mansfielders for nearly two weeks tightened its grip yesterday, sending the mercury to a scorching 92 degrees at 5:30 p. m.

It will be just as warm or warmer today, the weatherman predicted. There's hot weather to the west and stagnant pressure areas are holding off any invasion of cooler air from the northwest.

Mansfield's downtown area, where the mercury was considerably higher than the airport's 92, was virtually deserted yesterday. Traffic on major highways through the city was light, state highway patrolmen said.

City parks and swimming pools had their biggest day of the year as thousands sought relief from the heat at picnics under the trees and splashing about in the water.

Hundreds of Mansfielders went to Lake Erie and other closer lake resorts for the long week-end Charles Mill and Pleasant Hill lakes and the Mohican State park were popular spots.

The merciless sun baked all of Ohio, and the middlewest.

The mercury reached 97 degrees in Cleveland to set a new record for July 3. The old mark for the date was 94, established in 1911.

In Toledo, it was 98.6 degrees at 4 p. m., the highest temperature of the year and only 1.4 degrees under the record mark.

Other high temperatures included 94 in Columbus and Youngstown and 93 in Cincinnati. Chicago recorded a sweltering 104.

The weather bureau said a mass of warm, moist, maritime tropical air was covering the eastern half of the country.

Arlin Field Program Set

Fireworks To Be Feature Attraction

Thousands of Mansfielders are expected to jam Arlin field tonight for the city's first post-war, large-scale Fourth of July fireworks celebration.

Two thousand dollars worth of fireworks will be touched off beginning at 9 p. m., following a pageant presented by the city recreation department.

Added to the program will be a colorful display by the Marine Corps color guard, an address by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn. The program will be narrated and illustrated in music by Ken Brague's orchestra.

Gates at the stadium will open at 6 p. m. The program will begin at 7:30 p. m. General admission to the celebration is 25 cents for adults in the south section of seats. Reserved seat tickets will be sold for the north stands. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Persons purchasing tickets at the stadium should go to the north side of the field for reserved tickets and to the south side for general admission.

Approximately 50 children from the Children's home will be guests of the Richland County CIO council for the celebration.

Extra buses to accommodate the extra heavy travel to the stadium have been arranged with the cooperation of the Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc. The buses will operate on their usual holiday schedule, leaving the public square every half-hour.

VFW Elects Ashland Vet

Harold M Thompson of Ashland was elected chaplain of the Ohio Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday at the veteran group's convention in Cleveland

John M. Emde, principal of Fraunfelter junior high school, Akron, was named commander. Emde, who succeeds Arthur J. Willard, Cleveland homicide detective, rose from private to colonel during service in two World Wars.

Other officers picked at the closing convention session were: I. F. Judkins, Lima, senior vice commander; Municipal Judge Joseph Brueggeman of Cincinnati, junior vice commander; George L. Fetter, Columbus, quartermaster; Howard M. Cole, Lisbon, judge advocate; and Dr. Louis H. Brooks, Cleveland, surgeon.

Pulls Child, 3, From Water at Greter's Lake

A three-year-old Pavonia boy was pulled from the waters of Greter's lake west of Mansfield late yesterday and revived after he had been unconscious 15 minutes.

A swimmer and the lake's lifeguard teamed up to save the life of little Edward May and avert a holiday tragedy at the resort.

Holiday week-end traffic accidents in the Mansfield area injured three persons, one seriously. There were no fatalities up to a late hour last night.

C. Alfrey, Mansfield, R. D. 1, who was swimming at Greter's lake, dived into the water three times before he found the unconscious May boy, who had stepped off into a deep hole as he played in the lake.

Alfrey said he saw what had happened when the child's terrified mother, Mrs. Robert May, screamed for help. The child was found on the bottom of the lake.

The Mansfield fire department's resuscitator was rushed to the scene, but the boy had regained consciousness when it arrived. The firemen were called shortly before 6 p. m.

When he revived, Edward called "Mommy, mommy." His mother, accompanied him in an ambulance to General hospital where he was examined and released.

Watkins said the youngster was playing alongside of a boat and was warned that there was a sharp drop there. Edward took only a few steps more and went under.

Three bathers made repeated dives until Alfrey found him. The child was taken to the pavilion and placed on a cot where Watkins worked over him.

WOMAN INJURED

A 20-year-old Ashland woman was injured seriously late Saturday when thrown from her husband's car as it crashed head-on with a car from Cleveland. She was run over by the oncoming machine.

Mrs. Naomi Ewbank suffered a possible skull fracture and a cut over her right eye. Attaches at Samaritan hospital, Ashland, last night reported her condition as "fair."

According to police, Duane Ewbank, 22, of 112½ East Walnut street, Ashland, turned left into the inn's parking lot and collided with a car driven by Glenn Dobbs, 56, Cleveland. Mrs. Ewbank was thrown from her husband's car and was extricated from under the Dobbs car. There were tire marks on her arm, officers said.

Ewbank told Ashland police he did not see the approaching car. Dobbs' car skidded 45 feet as he tried to avoid the crash in the heavy line of traffic. Mrs. Helen Dobbs, 56, Cleveland, the driver's wife, was treated for minor knee injuries and released at Samaritan hospital.

CAR OVERTURNS

Mrs. Inell Jones, 16, of 318 Miller street, suffered lacerations of the scalp and contusions and lacerations of the fingers when the car in which she was riding turned over four times after it went over the side of the North Main street road about 7 p. m. Sunday.

Four other persons in the car were uninjured. They were Earl Jester, 19, of 572 Lida street, the driver; Mrs. Jones' husband, James, and her daughter, Betty, 16 months, and step-daughter, Reva, 11 years.

The children were thrown from the car when it left the road where construction work is being done on State Route 13.

Man, Wife Murdered

Mother Shot Fleeing With Baby

SALYERSVILLE, Ky.—(AP)— A young farmer and his wife were slain by an assailant who escaped into wooded hills near their home, six miles west of here, yesterday.

Salyersville City Patrolman William Minnix identified the victims as Charles Williams, 27, and Mrs. Wannie Williams, 24.

Mrs. Williams, died apparrently attempting to escape, with her seven-month-old baby in her arms.

Her body was found along U.S Route 460, by a passerby, a short while after neighbors some distance away from the Williams home heard three shots

Williams' body, struck by full charges from an automatic shotgun, was sprawled inside the four-room family cabin.

Mrs. Williams' body was found about 50 yards from the home, the baby in her arms and crying lustily.

The child had been struck by "two or three" of the pellets but was not injured seriously.

Mrs. Williams had been shot in the head, apparently while running.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4 If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

See Steel Ebbing To Low Point

Recession Hits Manufacturing

CLEVELAND — (UP) — The current recession may strike its low point this month in the steel industry, the trade magazine Steel reported today.

The magazine added the warning that in case of strikes in the coal or steel industries, or in both, the low point in production may come at a later date.

Barring such a possibility, steel industry spokesmen take in account the fact that more consuming plants are shutting down for extended holidays and summer vacations than every have in the past, Steel said.

Steel said that consumer order backlogs continue to shrink. Purchases are restricted to immediate requirements and buyers are still hoping for a downward adjustment in prices, in spite of statements by steel industry leaders that no such price cuts ought to be expected.

In their eleventh consecutive week of decline, steelmaking operations dropped 4½ points during the period ended July 2 to 80 per cent of capacity.

Declines in district rates last week were as follows: 6½ points to 74 per cent in eastern Pennsylvania; 2 points to 93.5 in Chicago, 28 points to 30 per cent in New England.

Pittsburgh and Buffalo held unchanged from revised rates of 81 and 85 per cent, respectively, while the Cleveland rate rose ½ point from a revised rate to 85.5 per cent. Other increases included the following: 8 points to 99 per cent in Cincinnati; 4½ points to 70.5 per cent in Wheeling; 3 points to 106 per cent in Detroit; 2 points to 90 per cent in Youngstown, and 1 point to 83 per cent in St. Louis. The Birmingham rate held unchanged at 100 per cent of capacity.

General Tunner, Berlin Lift Fliers Receive Arnold Award

CHICAGO — (INS) — Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington presented Gen. William H. Tunner and the men of the Berlin airlift with the air force association's highest honor — the H. H. Arnold award this weekend.

Presentation of the award — named for the wartime head of the U. S. Army Air force — was made at a luncheon in connection with the Air Force association's third annual national convention.

In his address to the delegates, Symington declared:

"Since your convention last year we have done some more notable things, such as the round-the-world non-stop flight of the Lucky Lady.

"But perhaps the most notable achievement of the air force was its contribution to the preservation of peace in a world situation loaded with explosive possibilities."

The air secretary told the Air Force association members that "your faith in air power has been confirmed. Air power has grown from a faith into a fact — leaving only this question: shall we be air power's master—or its victim?"

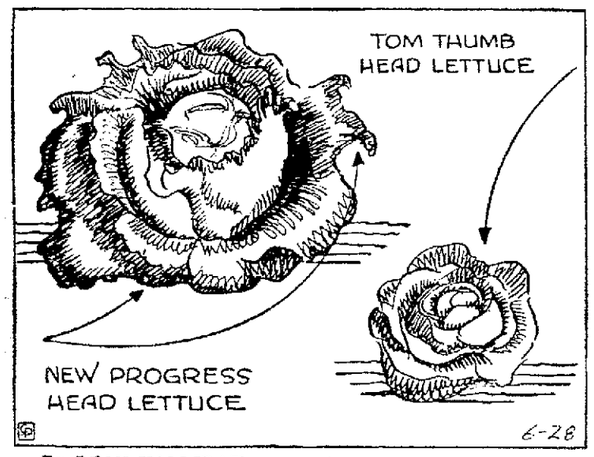
Tunner, commanding general of the combined air lift task force, flew directly from Wiesbaden, Germany, where he directs the gigantic "Operation Vittles," in a C-54 four-engined Douglas Skymaster, brought back from the Berlin run for an overhaul.

A reconditioned C-54 — fully checked after more than 1,000 hours in shuttle service — and a fresh crew were set to return to Germany on Tunner's arrival at O'Hare field-Chicago International airport in an exchange of planes.

Tunner was named by the AFA as "aviation's man of the year" for his "outstanding contribution to national security and world peace."

Today's Garden Graph

Secrets of Good Lettuce



By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Association

The real secret of growing good lettuce in the home garden — one too often overlooked or neglected — is prompt and repeated thinning out of the young plants.

Within three weeks after seeds are sown the seedlings will be two to three inches apart. The gardener who lets lettuce grow in a crowded row and pulls the leaves for salad when about four inches long will never know what quality in lettuce means. A week after the initial thinning, every other plant should be removed, thus giving each plant four inches in the row. The pulled up plants may be transplanted.

Thinning should be continued so that at no time do the plants touch, let alone crowd each other. A final distance for the plants of a foot apart in the row will be found about right for the majority of head lettuces, though exceptionally large - growing sorts may be given 18 inches.

A constant supply of lettuce may be obtained by sowing sorts maturing in succession or by sowing short rows of the same kind at regular intervals. But when adopting the latter course, bear in mind that there are different sorts for different seasons.

A new head lettuce recently developed by the U. S. Department of Argiculture and called "New Progress," is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. It heads even during the hot, dry weather of midsummer.

A miniature butterhead type that's extra crisp and sweet, also is illustrated. It is named Tom Thumb.

The ancient Romans often built huge ponds in which they kept decorative fish.

Catholics, Reds Lock In Battle

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Czechoslovak communist leaders, apparently shocked by bloody resistance from angry Catholic peasants, appealed Sunday for "peace and calm" in the nation's church-state war.

After a week's silence, government officials and the controlled press confirmed and gave details of fighting between Slovak Catholics and communist police who attempted to seize village priests.

A cabinet minister confirmed reports that peasant "minute men" armed with clubs and scythes were organized to "guard their priests day and night" in strongly-Catholic Slovakia. Informed diplomatic and church sources said two policemen were fatally beaten in the eastern province last week.

The seriousness with which the communist government viewed the resistance was underlined by Premier Antonin Zapotocky's trip to Bratislava, capital of Slovakia.

From Bratislava, whose streets were lined with armed troops and police for the premier's visit, came a newspaper account of the rioting in Levoca.

PROTECT PRIEST

It began when the communist controlled local executive council summoned the town priest to plan the week end religious holiday program. When the priest, Father Vojtas, refused to appear, a council member was sent to bring him in. The priest's parishioners gathered to protect him and more Catholics hurried into town as the alarm spread.

The Catholics pounced upon the council official, beat him and freed the priest. Then the Catholics started roaming the village. When the communist council members emerged from their meeting they were beaten and kicked.

One of the Catholics was arrested in the melee and thereupon the crown marched to the police station and demanded his release.

When one official sought—according to the communist paper account—to enter the parish house to beg the priest to disperse the crowd, the Catholics beat him with clubs as a woman shouted:

"They are coming to take our priest. Kill them."

Two Dead In Rail Crash

OAKLAND, MD. —(AP)—A wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's main line yesterday killed two crewmen and sent hundreds of hogs from stock cars pouring through a heavily-wooded, mountain resort area.

The Diplomat, an east bound passenger train, plowed into the rear end of a stock train, near Deer Park, Md., about five miles east of here. The stock train had become stalled shortly before by a broken air hose.

Those killed were E. C. Fromhart, engineer of the Diplomat, and W. L. Hartman, its fireman, both of Keyser, W. Va.

Nobody on the passenger train, nor on the stock train, was injured seriously. Several persons were shaken up.

2 Dead, 2 Hurt In Plane Crash

COVINGTON, Ky. —(AP)— Two youths were killed and at least two other persons were injured yesterday as a light airplane crashed at Kenton lakes, 15 miles south of here, in view of more than 500 picnickers.

The plane, stalling at an altitude of 50 feet, fell on a picnic table where four persons had just started eating dinner. The two dead youths were identified as Edgar H. Olding, 22, of Latonia, the pilot of the plane, and Herschel Bruce Rice, 26, of Latonia, a passenger.

DISPUTE CLOSES BARS

Philippines Celebrating Independence

MANILA — (AP) — Pealing church bells and booming salutes at 9:15 a.m. today marked the third anniversary of the Philippines republic. It coincides with American Independence Day.

In Manila Bay, the U. S. heavy cruiser St. Paul fired a big-brother welcome to this former dependency.

On the Luneta, along Dewey boulevard, where martyrs to Philippine freedom died before a Spanish firing squad a half-century ago, an honor guard of American sailors, soldiers and marines marched past President Elpidio Quirino.

Dr. Peppard Dies After Heart Attack

Physician Stricken At West Fourth Home

Dr. David W. Peppard, 72, a Mansfield physician for 46 years, died unexpectedly Sunday about 2 p.m., after suffering a heart attack at his home, 93 West Fourth street.

Dr. Peppard

He made his home and maintained offices in the old Cappeller house.

A native of Crestline where he was born April 8, 1877, Dr. Peppard was graduated from Crestline high school and the Western Reserve Medical school. He attended the University of Vienna and served his interneship at Lakeside hospital, Cleveland.

He was a member of the American, Ohio State and Richland county medical associations, First Presbyterian church, Westbrook Country club, and the Mansfield Elks lodge.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Louise C. Peppard; one son, William D. of San Mateo, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Paul Wilmore, Mrs. O. J. Wilkinson, and Mrs. James Keyes, all of Los Angeles; seven grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Howard French, Bay Village.

Dr. and Mrs. Peppard recently returned from California where they visited their children.

British Reds Shout Against U. S. Dollars

LONDON — (AP) — Several hundred British communists paraded through streets of London's Mayfair Sunday chanting:

"No more dollars — please!"

Occasionally it was varied to "No more Yank dollars." There were shouts of "Homes for Britons but no barracks for Yanks" and "Send the yanks home."

As they demonstrated, American Superfortresses, taking part in final exercises testing British air defense, were tracing vapor trails in the sunny sky high over London.

It was an orderly procession, kept that way by a host of police on horses and motorcycles, afoot, in riot vans and in radio cars.

The communists said they had a dual purpose — to celebrate America's Independence day and to give U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas a letter protesting against the trial of 12 communists in the United States.

Bombs Level Radio Towers

At least 25 bombs were dropped by three four-engined Liberators that circled at 2,000 feet.

The target area, about seven miles west of the city's center, was cordoned off by communist authorities. Entry of ambulances indicated some casualties, but workers said there had been only one death.

It was the second successive day of raids on Shanghai. Also earlier in the day, a lone F-51 Mustang fighter dropped two small bombs near the Lunghwa airfield, southeast of the city.

WHERE TALL CORN GROWS—Knee high corn by the Fourth of July gives promise of a bumper crop for farmers, but Sharon McFarland, 4, wonders what to expect if the corn is higher than a person's head. Of course the head isn't too high, but Sharon's dad, Leonard K. McFarland, State Route 178, near Five Points, planted his hybrid about the middle of May and watched it climb well above both the knee-high mark and Sharon's head.

7 Perish In Hotel Fire

Six Injured; 50 Guests Flee

ABERDEEN, WASH. —(AP)—At least seven persons were killed and six injured in a hotel fire here yesterday.

An undetermined number of persons, probably about 50, escaped uninjured. The small residential type hotel was destroyed. Cause of the fire was not know.

So far as could be learned immediately, the dead and injured all were from the Aberdeen region. Coroner E. F. Riley tentatively identified five of them:

Paul Myrh, the proprietor.

Mrs. Mary Kearns, 74.

Hugh Rogers, a paralytic.

A Mrs. Beshers and a Mrs. Abshire.

Fire Chief Charles A. Borum said seven bodies were found in the ruins after the flames had been extinguished. They were so badly burned identification was difficult.

The hotel was a two-story brick and wood structure. The first floor was occupied by shops and guest rooms all were on the second floor. The fire spread so quickly the hotel stairway was cut off and all guests were trapped on the second floor.

Flays Communists

TOKYO — (AP) General MacArthur castigated communism Sunday as "national and international outlawery" and questioned its right to legal sanction.

11 Killed In First Half of '49

Traffic Fatalities Up 37 Per Cent

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Traffic accidents on Mansfield and Richland county streets and highways during the first half of 1949 claimed 37 per cent more lives than during the same period last year.

Eleven persons died in the first six months of this year as compared with eight last year.

Traffic accidents in Mansfield were up, too. A total of 772 were reported in the six-month period ended June 30. In the corresponding period last year there were 745 accidents. The city had only one fatality in the first half of the year.

Mansfield Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals and Cpl. John L. Bishop of the Mansfield state highway patrol post blamed carelessness for most of the accidents.

At he same time, both Cpl. Bishop and Commissioner Boals believe there's more safety consciousness among motorists and pedestrians than ever before.

"Every accident happens under different circumstances," according to Boals, "and many times accidents occur where they're least expected."

As far as the two men can determine, it's that brief interval in which a motorist or pedestrian is liable to relax that causes the trouble. Anyone using a highway for either foot or vehicle transportation must be on the alert constantly, they said.

WARNS PEDESTRIANS

"Pedestrians, too, have a definite responsibility when walking on a highway used by motor vehicles," Cpl. Bishop said.

"Good advice is to wear something white, maybe a white handkerchief tied around the arm next to the road. And always walk facing traffic. The pedestrian may also carry a flashlight for added protection," Bishop added.

Five of the 11 killed in the county during the past six months were pedestrians. Five persons lost their lives in traffic mishaps and one was killed at a grade crossing. According to fatality records, the heaviest death

Reds Pay Homage To Bulgarian Premier

SOFIA, BULGARIA — (AP) — The body of Premier Georgi Dimitrov was enroute to Sofia from Moscow Sunday aboard a funeral train draped with Bulgarian and Soviet flags. Moscow broadcasts, describing the departure from the Soviet capital where the Bulgarian communist died Saturday at the age of 67, said "tens of thousands of Muscovites formed a living corridor along Gorky street" as the body was borne to the train on a gun carriage.

Softer Water, Softer Hands

Clear Fork To Cut Soap Use In City

A sharp slash in soap expenses and less wear and tear on housewive's hands for 1950 were predicted today by City Engineer B. V. BeVier.

BeVier, in discussing the proposed filtration plant at the Clear Fork dam, said the plant will make the water 24 per cent softer than well water now in use, thus leading to a saving in actual cash for the household budget. In addition, the softer water will mean less time spent in washing clothes and dishes — a varitable boon to area housewives.

The filtration plant, still among the future projects at the dam, is expected to be completed by June, 1950.

There will be no water softener plant under present plans, but the filtration plant is designed so that a water softener plant could be added at anytime. BeVier said. That addition would reduce the hardness of Mansfield's water 69 per cent and, consequently giving that much suds, saving that much more soap and 'roughening' of housewivies hands.

Taste of the water will be about as it is now, the engineer stated, although he added that some persons with extremely sensitive taste may notice a slight difference when the water is warm. There'll be no difference in cold water.

Water routed through the filtration plant will be clarified with alum and balanced with soda ash. Chlorine, as an additional purifier, will be placed in the water at the pumping station.

BeVier said that treatment at the filtration plant will remove the iron from the water. Iron deposits in the water sometimes clog hot water tanks and turn the water rust-colored Acids that corrode pipes also will be removed.

City Faces Torrid Holiday

The heat wave that has broiled Mansfielders for nearly two weeks tightened its grip yesterday, sending the mercury to a scorching 92 degrees at 5:30 p. m.

It will be just as warm or warmer today, the weatherman predicted. There's hot weather to the west and stagnant pressure areas are holding off any invasion of cooler air from the northwest

Mansfield's downtown area, where the mercury was considerably higher than the airport's 92, was virtually deserted yesterday. Traffic on major highways through the city was light, state highway patrolmen said.

City parks and swimming pools had their biggest day of the year as thousands sought relief from the heat at picnics under the trees and splashing about in the water.

Hundreds of Mansfielders went to Lake Erie and other closer lake resorts for the long week-end. Charles Mill and Pleasant Hill lakes and the Mohican State park were popular spots.

The merciless sun baked all of Ohio, and the middlewest.

The mercury reached 97 degrees in Cleveland to set a new record for July 3. The old mark for the date was 94, established in 1911.

In Toledo, it was 98.6 degrees at 4 p. m., the highest temperature of the year and only 1.4 degrees under the record mark.

Other high temperatures included 94 in Columbus and Youngstown and 93 in Cincinnati. Chicago recorded a sweltering 104.

The weather bureau said a mass of warm, moist, maritime tropical air was covering the eastern half of the country.

Arlin Field Program Set

Fireworks To Be Feature Attraction

Thousands of Mansfielders are expected to jam Arlin field tonight for the city's first post-war, large-scale Fourth of July fireworks celebration.

Two thousand dollars worth of fireworks will be touched off beginning at 9 p. m., following a pageant presented by the city recreation department.

Added to the program will be a colorful display by the Marine Corps color guard, an address by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn. The program will be narrated and illustrated in music by Ken Brague's orchestra.

Gates at the stadium will open at 6 p. m. The program will begin at 7:30 p. m. General admission to the celebration is 25 cents for adults in the south section of seats. Reserved seat tickets will be sold for the north stands. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Persons purchasing tickets at the stadium should go to the north side of the field for reserved tickets and to the south side for general admission.

Approximately 50 children from the Children's home will be guests of the Richland County CIO council for the celebration.

Extra buses to accommodate the extra heavy travel to the stadium have been arranged with the cooperation of the Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc. The buses will operate on their usual holiday schedule, leaving the public square every half-hour.

VFW Elects Ashland Vet

Harold M. Thompson of Ashland was elected chaplain of the Ohio Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday at the veteran group's convention in Cleveland

John M. Emde, principal of Fraunfelter junior high school, Akron, was named commander. Emde, who succeeds Arthur J. Willard, Cleveland homicide detective, rose from private to colonel during service in two World Wars.

Other officers picked at the closing convention session were: I. F. Judkins, Lima, senior vice commander; Municipal Judge Joseph Brueggeman of Cincinnati, junior vice commander; George L. Fetter, Columbus, quartermaster; Howard M. Cole, Lisbon, judge advocate; and Dr. Louis H. Brooks, Cleveland, surgeon.

Pulls Child, 3, From Water at Greter's Lake

A three-year-old Pavonia boy was pulled from the waters of Greter's lake west of Mansfield late yesterday and revived after he had been unconscious 15 minutes.

A swimmer and the lake's lifeguard teamed up to save the life of little Edward May and avert a holiday tragedy at the resort.

Holiday week-end traffic accidents in the Mansfield area injured three persons, one seriously. There were no fatalities up to a late hour last night.

C. Alfrey, Mansfield, R. D. 1, who was swimming at Greter's lake, dived into the water three times before he found the unconscious May boy, who had stepped off into a deep hole as he played in the lake.

Alfrey said he saw what had happened when the child's terrified mother, Mrs. Robert May, screamed for help. The child was found on the bottom of the lake.

John Watkins, 284 Superior street, lifeguard at the lake resort and swimming instructor at the Mansfield YMCA, revived the child after 15 minutes of artificial respiration.

The Mansfield fire department's resuscitator was rushed to the scene, but the boy had regained consciousness when it arrived. The firemen were called shortly before 6 p. m.

When he revived, Edward called "Mommy, mommy." His mother, accompanied him in an ambulance to General hospital where he was examined and released.

Watkins said the youngster was playing alongside of a boat and was warned that there was a sharp drop there. Edward took only a few steps more and went under.

Three bathers made repeated dives until Alfrey found him. The child was taken to the pavilion and placed on a cot where Watkins worked over him.

WOMAN INJURED

A 20-year-old Ashland woman was injured seriously late Saturday when thrown from her husband's car as it crashed head-on with a car from Cleveland. She was run over by the oncoming machine.

Mrs. Naomi Ewbank suffered a possible skull fracture and a cut over her right eye. Attaches at Samaritan hospital, Ashland, last night reported her condition as "fair."

The accident occurred in front of the Hop-Off inn at the southwest edge of Ashland on U. S. Route 42.

According to police, Duane Ewbank, 22, of 112½ East Walnut street, Ashland, turned left into the inn's parking lot and collided with a car driven by Glenn Dobbs, 56, Cleveland. Mrs. Ewbank was thrown from her husband's car and was extricated from under the Dobbs car. There were tire marks on her arm, officers said.

Ewbank told Ashland police he did not see the approaching car. Dobbs' car skidded 45 feet as he tried to avoid the crash in the heavy line of traffic. Mrs. Helen Dobbs, 56, Cleveland, the driver's wife, was treated for minor knee injuries and released at Samaritan hospital.

CAR OVERTURNS

Mrs Inell Jones, 16, of 318 Miller street, suffered lacerations of the scalp and contusions and lacerations of the fingers when the car in which she was riding turned over four times after it went over the side of the North Main street road about 7 p. m. Sunday.

Four other persons in the car were uninjured. They were Earl Jester, 19, of 572 Lida street, the driver; Mrs. Jones' husband, James, and her daughter, Betty, 16 months, and step-daughter, Reva, 11 years.

The children were thrown from the car when it left the road where construction work is being done on State Route 13.

Man, Wife Murdered

Mother Shot Fleeing With Baby

SALYERSVILLE, Ky.—(AP)— A young farmer and his wife were slain by an assailant who escaped into wooded hills near their home, six miles west of here, yesterday.

Salyersville City Patrolman William Minnix identified the victims as Charles Williams, 27, and Mrs Wannie Williams, 24.

Mrs. Williams, died apparrently attempting to escape, with her seven-month-old baby in her arms.

Her body was found along U.S. Route 460, by a passerby, a short while after neighbors some distance away from the Williams home heard three shots.

Williams' body, struck by full charges from an automatic shotgun, was sprawled inside the four-room family cabin

Mrs. Williams' body was found about 50 yards from the home, the baby in her arms and crying lustily.

The child had been struck by "two or three" of the pellets but was not injured seriously.

Mrs. Williams had been shot in the head, apparently while running.

'Five-Per Centers' Gradually Quit Washington

100 Still Active In Capital

Number Drops As WAA Quits

WASHINGTON — (UP) — How many "five per centers" are doing business in Washington? And what is the government doing about them?

The concensus is that "management counselors" or "manufacturer's representatives" who work on a percentage-of-business basis have dropped from a wartime and post war peak of more than 200 to considerably less than 100.

One of the major reasons is that the War Assets administration, which disposed of war surplus costing more than $30,000,000,000 is folding up shop. It was a favorite field for the agent who signed up clients for five per cent of the value of any government contract he obtained.

Questioning of more than a dozen officials and lobbyists — who operate on a fixed fee basis — was prompted by recent stories about the "five per cent" activities of James V. Hunt, a former lieutenant-colonel in the army quartermaster general's office, later a WAA official and more recently a management counselor.

To get a general picture of the present activities of these "five per centers", the United Press talked with officials of the Commerce and Treasury departments, the Senate and House, the Economic Cooperation administration, former WAA officials, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, and half a dozen lawyers — registered lobbyists — who represent out-of-town clients on a salary basis.

Some were reticient to be quoted; others willing. All agreed that "you hear a great deal less about the activities of the five per centers than you did during and right after the war."

Some pointed out that there is nothing illegal in such operations. Others questioned the ethics of obtaining such contracts through bragging about "influence" with Washington high officialdom. All said they knew no "five per centers" as such.

'Buried' Man To Quit Grave

ZANESVILLE —(AP)— At 4:15 p. m. (EST) today, Raymond Emmert, new holder of the world's "buried alive" record, is to emerge from the underground coffin where he has lain 45 days.

Emmert, a 40-year-old unemployed Warld War II army veteran, holed in May 20, in an attempt to beat the record of another Zanesville man, L. McIntyre, who stayed down under for 42 days in Chicago in 1938.

Emmert has spent his time in a six-foot coffin under six feet of dirt. Since his "burial" Thousands of persons have peeked down the 10-inch opening that serves as his "observation post" and food elevator.

Richland Traffic Deaths Show 37 Per Cent Increase

toll occurred in May when four were killed.

Last year, for the same period, six had been killed in traffic accidents; one pedestrian had lost his life and one person was killed in a railroad crossing crash.

"It's up to each individual behind the wheel to practice safety at all times," said commissioner Boals. "A motorist can drive just within the law or he can be on the safe side and give the law the benefit of the doubt.

"It's not wise to take chances just because you have the right-of-way."

So far this year, 82 persons have been injured in city accidents, slightly lower than last year's toll of 94 injured in the same period.

Boals believes that every one of the 765 accidents this year could have been avoided.

"People don't take advantage of their vision whether they're driving or crossing streets on foot.

"A good test of this," he continued, "is to look straight ahead and see how much you can see out of the corners of your eyes.

"Try it, and you'll find you can see the curb and children who might be playing along the curb, the trees along the sidewalk, a person standing at the corner to cross the street, even a dog along the side of the street."

NOT SPEEDWAYS

And side streets are no speedways for motorists, Boals warned again.

"Every motorist must be more careful on side streets than on main thoroughfares. You never see children playing in the middle of West Fourth street, but you'll find them on the little-traveled streets like West Third, Second and First.

"The speed limit on these side streets is 25 miles per hour and even that's too fast to stop for a child who might dart out in front of a car."

Boals gave the same warning for elderly persons whose vision as well as hearing may be faulty.

"We must correct the indifference of motorists to 'minor' violations such as discourteous passing, cutting corners on turns, straddling a line or illegal crossing of center lines, using defective head lights, driving with a high beam in the approaching driver's eyes, etc. Some of them may be just within the law but the motorist who practices them is only practicing bad driving habits and endangering his own life as well as the lives of others."

An effort to hold accidents to a minimum is the annual car check which will be held during July in Richland and Ashland counties. Mansfield police and state highway patrolmen will work together in the project.

As in past years, the car owner may report for a mechanical check at the state patrol post on Ashland road or at the Mansfield police station. Mansfield garages, authorized by the state, will also check vehicles for mechanical faults.

When an auto measures up to the standards set by the state, a sticker, indicating that the car has been checked, will be placed on the windshield.

In addition to the check, the state patrol announced that periodic and unannounced checks would be held on the highways throughout the state during the month.

If any mechanical faults are found in the cars checked, the owners will be given a reasonable length of time for repairs and then will be ordered back in for another check.

Kiddies' Book Tells How To Read Story In Tracks

"Tracks and Trailcraft," by Ellsworth Jaeger' is a useful and informative book about animals' tracks, and it will be available to children Tuesday at the Mansfield Public library.

The books identifies the trails left by all kinds of animals from dinosaurs to the rabbits and mice in the backyard. It tells how to know the different tracks, how to trail an animal, and how to read the story told in the tracks.

"Children's zoo, adults admitted only when accompanied by a child," is the way a sign outside a special zoo in the Bronx reads. A little girl named Juoy went to the zoo one day and a man with a camera saw her and began to take pictures. He took pictures everywhere she went and of all the things she saw. The book of pictures with a short story is the result.

Here is a book that came because of a glass of milk and because a little girl asked her father how much a cow is worth. He said that anything is worth what it means to you. To prove it to the girl he told her some stories, and here they are for you to read in a book called MOST BEAUTIFUL HOUSE, by Hertha Pauli. There are five stories in the book, and one of them tells about the cow.

BRIDLED WITH RAINBOWS is a collection of poetry for young children, edited by Sara and John Brewton. It is divided into 12 sections, "Off to Somewhere", Bells in the City", "Happy be the Weather" and others. There are all sorts of poems here, for reading aloud, for learning and for dreaming about.

There's hardly a little girl who hasn't wished at sometime or other that she had been a boy. Cissie had a special reason for wishing it. You see, Cissie, had no parents, she was boarded around with her aunts, first with one and then with another. Then the aunts sent her to Uncle Eben to stay and Cissie knew at once that there was where she wanted to stay.

But Uncle Eben wanted a boy so Cissie worked as hard as she could to be as good as a boy so she could stay on PEACHTREE ISLAND. Mildred Lawrence wrote the book and most fourth and fifth graders will enjoy it.

JUST FOR FUN is a collection of stories and poems that are full of laughter. Elva Smith and Alice Hazeltine have worked together to make this one of the funniest collections, and they have succeeded well.

ONCE A COWBOY, by Charles Martin, is the story of Randy who went to spend the summer on the ranch. He went with a great big chip on his shoulder and soon had it knocked off. He found that he couldn't show off as he had planned, that he had to make some effort to fit in and be like the others. Once that was learned Randy had a grand summer — and the story of it makes grand reading for you.

Mrs. August Wireman, 69, of Alger was killed Saturday when she was struck by an automobile.

A retired Cleveland pipefitter, John Burth, 68, was struck and killed by an automobile Saturday.

A two-car collision near Delphos caused the death Saturday of Joseph Stumpf, 77.

Claude Conley, 39, of Garrett, Ky. died in Willard hospital Saturday of injuries received Friday in an automobile collision.

Thomas Goodwald, 15, of Monaco, Pa., was killed when his automobile crashed into a hillside wall bordering an underpass in Wellsville, O.

Chester Smith, 45, and Mrs. Sue Still, 27, both of Hamilton were killed in an automobile which skidded for 600 feet along the Hamilton pike at the Butler-Hamilton county line and then rolled over into a ravine. The skidding car ripped out several hundred feet of fences and guard rails.

Four other occupants of the car were injured, one critically. A seventh passenger escaped unhurt. All seven were thrown clear of the wreckage. The group was enroute to a Newport, Ky., night club when theaccident occurred.

Electric Plans Bared

Power Plants Seek New Sites

NEW YORK — (AP) — American Gas and Electric company said today two electric power producers in its system are acquiring land for three new power stations.

Philip Sporn, American Gas and Electric president, said Appalachian Electric Power company is seeking sites on the Kanawha river, near Charleston, W. Va., and on the New river, not far from Glen Lyn, Va.

The third proposed plant will be built by the Ohio Power company about 12 miles south of McConnelsville, Ohio.

All three will be similar in design and capacity, built on the unit plan with two units per plant and each unit consisting of one 200,000 horsepower steam turjbo-generator.

Sporn said the proposed plants are part of a long-range program, that they will be strategically located with respect to coal and water supply and will be properly situated for economical delivery of power to American Gas and Electric's interconnected transmission system.

'Armed' Thief Smoked Out

STEUBENVILLE—(AP)— An intruder armed with a toy pistol was smoked out of Mayor Walter E. Sterling's office with tear gas after Police Captain William Consol reported seeing him rifling office drawers.

Consol said he saw the man, identified as Joseph W. Garlinger, 24, in the mayor's office when he left police headquarters in the same building to get a breath of fresh air in an adjoining alley.

When Garlinger brandished what turned out to be a toy pistol, Consol summoned two radio cruiser crews to surround the building. Garlinger surrendered when a tear gas bomb was lobbed into the office.

Plan Expedition In Search Of Noah's Ark On Mountain

ISTANBUL — (INS) — Four Americans, planning an expedition that may end the age - old search for Noah's Ark, awaited official permission for their search today, and hoped that Russian spy fears will not prevent it.

Russian wariness of alleged espionage last month prevented a British expedition from climbing Mt. Ararat, where the Biblical ship is believed to have run around after the "great deluge."

Pravda, the official Moscow organ of the communist party, labeled the British group "spies" when it became known they intended to scale Mt. Ararat, which dominates the East Armenian section of the Turkish-Russian frontier. Turkish officials, apparently wary of exciting her northern neighbor, quickly cancelled the expedition's permit.

Dr. Aaron Smith, of Greensboro, N. C., head of the current expedition, said that even if permission is granted for himself and his colleagues to scale the peak, he expects complications. The Russians, the doctor declared, will not hesitate to "sabotage" the search.

The three other expedition members who join Smith in believing the ark is imprisoned in a glacier on the sides of Mount Ararat, are Edmond J. Newton, of Colfax, N. C. Walte I. Wood, of Sea Cliff, N. Y., and W. C. Ogg, of Knoxville, Tenn

They intended to go to Ankara this week, and begin negotiations for permission to travel beyond Erzurum, the Turkish army's powerful eastern bastion.

10,000 On City's Fringes Lack Adequate Sewage Service

Water Facilities Also Scored

Health Board Reports On Survey

By GAYLARD HAKE

An estimated population of 10,000 that forms a fringe around Mansfield's corporation limits does not have adequate sewage disposal or water supply facilities, a health department survey shows

The survey was conducted by Douglas P. Griffin, sanitary engineer for the Mansfield-Richland county board of health.

The condition was termed a "health hazard" and a possible source of an outbreak of gastro-intestinal diseases," by Health Commissioner Harry Wain

The survey disclosed there are 2,368 homes in an area of approximately one mile from the corporation limits with what was termed "inadequate sewage disposal."

Most heavily populated is the area east of the city It includes such additions as Coolridge Heights, East Mansfield and Lincoln Heights

"We can not say now how this condition could be corrected," Griffin said

SURVEY NEEDED

"It will take an engineering survey and a great amount of study before any measure could be proposed to provide sanitary and storm sewers in the area," he added.

However, Amended House Bill 407, that has passed both houses of the Ohio legislature, and is awaiting Gov Frank J Lausche's signature before becoming law, will aid in correcting the problem here health department officials said

The amended bill authorizes sewage disposal and water supply systems to be financed by mortgage revenue bonds, which would be paid off by property owners who receive the benefit.

Under the existing law funds to finance this type of project would be paid off by all county residents The project could be started only after it was approved by the voters of the county

However, if Bill 407 is signed by the governor, the county commissioners will be authorized to start the project in the same manner as city council can order needed improvements within the city limits

The health department is going to continue its investigation of the situation and will hold meetings with interested parties to get their ideas Dr Wain said

The "interested parties" were discribed as property owner groups in the various areas.

PROBLEM GENERAL

The problem is a general one Dr. Wain said The areas spring up but are not within the corperation limits and so do not receive the benefits

Health department officials pointed out an area like Bowman street allotments has a population greater than the village of Bellville, by the 1940 census figures But still these urban communities are operating under rural sanitary conditions

Bandits Miss Cash

NEW DELPHI — (UP) — Bandits held up a bank in Ahmedabad as 500,000 rupees (about $150,000) was being loaded into a truck at the front door, but escaped with the wrong box Bank officials said the gunmen, leaving the cash behind, sped away by automobile with a huge box of account books

PRACTICAL TRAINING—Miss Margaret Vogel, 546 Wood street, a student nurse in her junior year at General hospital, gives some ice to Mary Hanrahan, 660 Maple street, who had had her tonsils removed at the hospital Caring for patients is part of the student nurse's practical training

Hospital Director Invites Visitors

Proud of Nurses' School, Copeland Says

By EILEEN DEWHURST

Supt Wayne A Copeland of Mansfield General hospital wants Mansfielders to visit the hospital school of nursing to learn about the work it's doing

"I think it's about time Mansfield realized what a fine school for students we have here at General," Copeland said, in explaining the procedure by which a girl becomes a graduate and registered nurse.

Echoing Copeland's praise for the school was Miss Rachel Osbun, Mansfield, R D 2, a senior student nurse at the hospital.

"No profession could give a girl more satisfaction I wouldn't exchange my training here for a good deal," Miss Osbun said

Miss Osbun added she is receiving a lot of satisfaction out of applying what she has learned to the care of patients in the hospital

Copeland said "We will welcome anyone who may wish to make a survey of the school and its activities"

"There was a time years ago when student nurses got down on their knees and scrubbed floors as a part of their training but not in these modern times especially at General hospital," Copeland said

While student nurses may not live the luxurious "life of Riley" they do live a comfortable, well-arranged and adequately cared-for life at the Mansfield hospital

BEST OF EVERYTHING

They get the best food the dietary department offers, the use of one of the finest nurses' homes in this area, and every medical precaution available at the hospital, according to Copeland

The day of a student nurse at General is just eight hours long regardless of what she may do during that time If her classes consume four hours, for instance the other four hours are spent on the floor and that ends her day She doesn't extend her hours of theory. When on night duty nurses work only five days per week.

"Every student is given an annual physical examination," Miss Beal added, "and when she is ill she is taken care of at the hospital, which carries hospitalization on all student nurses. She has the benefit of X-rays, laboratory and other tests if she wishes them. In addition, she gets seven days of sick leave per year."

There is a full-time faculty to teach classes, all of whom have their degrees in a particular field Miss Elaine Guiher is science instructor; Miss Jeanette Dowds, clinical teacher; and Mrs. Julia Raby is instructor of nursing arts.

"Perhaps the best proof of the standards and standing of our nursing school here," Miss Beal said, "is that we already have 32 girls signed up for the fall semester as first-year students with several more to register"

Three graduates of the 1948 class at General hospital will supplement their training by taking post-graduate work beginning in October

Miss Gwendolyn Bowers, 41 Reba avenue, and Miss Joan Kunkle, Fredericktown, will spend six months at Children's hospital, Washington, D C

Fertile Crescent Plan Raises Middle East Tension, Tempers

CAIRO — (AP) — The "Fertile Crescent" plan again is causing explosive tensions in the troubled Middle East

In recent weeks intensive intra Arab political activity has centered on attempts by Iraq and Transjordan to revive the 30-year-old issue It is predicted a climax may come soon

The "Fertile Crescent" plan came into life in 1918 19 as the "Greater Syria" project

After the collapse of the Turkish empire, the Emir Hussein, head of the princely Hashemite family strove to become the sovereign of an Arab kingdom comprising Syria, Iraq, Transjordan, Palestine and Lebanon.

These countries form the western part of Asia Minor They extend from Turkey and the Mediterranean to the Persian Gulf and the Arabian Sea

Hussein died his dream still unfulfilled But his project remained close to the hearts of his two sons — Feisal, now dead, who became king of Iraq, and Abdullah, now monarch of Transjordan

Feisal was succeeded by his elder son, Ghazi, who died in a motor car accident in 1939 The present king, Feisal II is a 14-year-old student at Harlow England Emir Abdul Illah brother of Ghazi and nephew of Transjordan's King Abdullah assumed the regency.

The greater Syria plan lay dormant for years Formation in 1945 of the Arab league, composed of seven Arab states — Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq, Transjordan, Saudi Arabia and Yemen — appeared to have doomed the project.

The Palestine war brought the first signs that the Hashemite family remained actively interested in the project

King Abdullah told his Arab legion last April he still was pursuing his father's dream

More recently the Iraqi premier, Nouri Pasha El Said, turned his attention to neighboring Syria. The March coup d'etat, which brought Colonel Husny El Zaim to power in Syria, appeared to offer an opportunity for pushing the project.

But preliminary moves met strong and immediate opposition from Syria, Egypt, the Lebanon and Saudi Arabia

Syria warned the big powers not to interfere and Saudi Arabia and Egypt were reliably reported to have given similar warnings to the western powers

Egypt told El Pachachi in June, according to high Egyptian sources "dismiss Nouri Al Said Pasha first Then we can talk"

That hasn't happened to date —and the Arab world remains split into two camps over the "Fertile Crescent"

Learning to Be Chorus Girl Takes Perseverence and Hard Work

By JOAN SCHWEITZ

Learning to be a chorus girl takes long practice, hard work and usually some "lucky breaks" for dancers who get into the big time. But these obstacles don't discourage eight-year-old Janice Benjamin, who hopes to climb the ladder to stardom. In pursuit of her goal, she is now appearing at the Greystone with three other girls, giving three shows a night.

Janice is a tall, slim, dark-haired girl with high cheekbones and delicately pretty features. She doesn't look a day older than her 18 years.

Janice has been dancing every since she was three years old. Her father was a dancer and her grandfather played nearly every town in the country with a comedy act. So, Janice is the third generation of the Benjamin family to go into "show business." She never thought of doing anything else, she declared during an interview.

Grandfather Benjamin, who played the Ringside about 20 years ago, here in Mansfield, sat in the audience Thursday night at the Greystone and watched Janice strut her stuff.

"I can't show her a thing," he stated. "She knows all the tricks without anyone showing her." He said that Janice has received nothing but A's in her high school in Columbus.

Janice said that she has no trouble with wolves. Everyone is very nice to her. The girls are a team and they all live with their parents in or near Columbus. Their agent comes to Mansfield after their last show, 1:30 a. m. and drives them home. Then he brings them back in time for their first show, 9:30 p. m.

The Greystone is the first night club Janice has ever played. Up to now she has been dancing at private parties and club meetings. During the day (she sleeps until twelve when she does a late show like this Mansfield appearance), she helps out her dancing teacher, Marie Ott, in her Columbus school. She has taught classes and helped work out some of the routines that the chorus uses.

Each of the four girls has at least one solo specialty. They all have big ambitions in show business and they all sound "professional" when they talk about their costumes and routines.

Eddie Black, master of ceremonies and manager of the Greystone, says they're all likable girls and very well trained. He declared that their agent watches over them like a father.

Janice and the others are all very serious about show business.

"It's exciting but it sure is hard work," she said.

The girls change their act for every show and climb into a new set of costumes. By 1:30 a. m. they're all dead tired and it's hard work to keep on smiling, they admitted.

Happenings In Hollywood

Plays Top Screen Roles, Can't Stick

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Louis Calhern, an actor who successfully alternates between stage and screen roles, nonetheless thinks Hollywood has some misgivings about him.

"I've had parts in pictures which would have made anyone else a star," he said, "but the studios always let me go back to Broadway."

Actually, Calhern likes the arrangement, does his best to maintain a balance between films and plays. His home is in New York. Near the end of a screen assignment he automatically starts thinking in terms of the stage.

"Haven't got a good play in your pocket, have you?" he inquired.

Calhern believes his two best roles in Hollywood so far were in "Arch of Triumph" and "The Red Pony." But even these didn't result in his permanent residence here.

" 'Arch' was a flop, and 'red Pony' didn't do so well, either. But 'Arch' was a lot of fun, and I really was disappointed about 'Pony.' I thought that was a fine story."

The last time Calhern returned to New York with nothing in view he wound up in a revival. Molnar's "The Play's The Thing." This proved to be one of the outstanding successes of the Broadway season.

Calhern came west some months ago for MGM's "The Red Danube." He shaved off his moustache to play a Russian general. This time MGM kept him around for another, "Nancy Goes To Rio," with Jane Powell and Ann Southern. Calhern was told to let his moustache grow. Then came re-takes on "Danube." He shaved it off. Now back on "Nancy" again, he had his upper lip dressed each morning by a makeup man.

In "Nancy" Calhern plays Jane's grandfather, a former actor. For the first time in 30 years he has to do a dance routine. He's 54 years old.

"Nobody seems to know that I started in burlesque, at 17. Of course, the orchestra played very loud when I sang, and a capable partner covered up my bad dancing."

The actor pulled a ligament in one leg with all this rug-cutting the other day, but he gets his dancing lesson daily just the same, "from a very patient coach."

His greatest shock, he related, came last season, when he attended the theater. Two men seated behind him were discussing a play.

"What we need," said one, "is a young Louis Calhern."

Performs Dual Role As Artists' Model

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Things have to be done in a big way in Hollywood, and so Claudette Colbert is having her portrait painted by two artists simultaneously.

She poses between scenes of "Three Came Home" at 20th Century-Fox for "Dusty" Anderson, wife of director Jean Negulesco, and for Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese actor, who has an important role in the film.

Miss Anderson has had many exhibits of her work. Hayakawa, who is painting Miss Colbert on silk, supplemented his income with his painting during the 17 years he spent in France after leaving the silent screen.

Cameron Tired of Getting Beaten Up

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — "Half My Life," says Rod Cameron, "is spent in getting knocked down. The other half I spend knocking somebody else down. When a director calls 'action' I come out fighting instead of acting."

In "Brimstone" at Republic the tall, lanky Cameron brawled with two other huskies, got pitched over a cliff. Later in the same film he engaged in a running gunfight while riding a wild horse, and got tossed off a balcony after having a table and two chairs broken over his head. Even with studio furniture, which shatters easily, this is rugged, says the six-foot-four, 180-pound Cameron.

George Montgomery beat him up in "Belle Starr's Daughter." In "Strike It Rich" he was battered and dumped into pools of oil and water. In "Stampede" he fought four men at once. "The Plunderers" and "Panhandle" provided additional punishment. All these were filmed in 14 months, and Cameron began to wonder if he'd ever get a chance to heal completely.

"I don't suppose Charles Boyer ever lifts a hand except to comb his hair or embrace a pretty girl," said Rod. "But by the time I reach the scene where I get my arms around the leading lady, I'm usually too tired to care."

'Bogey' Values His Yacht At $75,000

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Producer Colin Miller persuaded Humphrey Bogart to let him use the actor's miniature replica of the Bogart yacht, Santana, for atmosphere in David Niven's office in "A Kiss For Corliss." But Bogart agreed only on condition that Miller insure the model for $75,000.

"Wait a minute, Bogey," Miller protested. "You can buy a real yacht for that kind of money."

"Sure," agreed Bogart. "Maybe you can even buy the Santana for $75,000. But I made that miniature myself — and you can't buy that!"

Westerns Prove To Be Filipino Hits

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Favored film fare among Filipinos, says Dr. Ciriaco A. Santiago, is the western, either American or Philippine style.

A Philippine western, he explained, is any outdoor adventure picture. Santiago, president of Premier Productions, incorporated, is a leading Manila producer. He is here studying methods of filming color pictures with black-and-white equipment.

On the set of "The Fighting Plainsman," where such a system is used, Santiago and producer Nat Hole discussed the possibility of collaborating on a picture in the Philippines. American and Filipino casts would make two versions, one in English and the other in Tagalog.

Santiago plans a $55,000 color film processing plant in Manila. He is accompanied on his inspection trip by his ace cinematographer, Ricardo Marcelino.

Studio Mail Clerk Gets Acting Chore

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Rose Marie Couch, a mail clerk at Universal - International studios, is the latest unknown to get an acting role. Producer Paul Short liked her test for a role with Audie Murphy in "The Kid From Texas."

Miss Couch, a redhead, is the great granddaughter of Mexico's General Don Luis Terrazas, once reputedly one of that country's 10 wealthiest men before Pancho Villa divested him of most of his holdings. Rose Marie says she'd like to earn enough money to improve the 40,000 acres of land in Chihuahua state which she inherited.

Chippewa Lake Books Name Band For 4th

Skitch Henderson, his piano and his orchestra come to the Starlight ballroom at Chippewa Lake park tomorrow for a one-night stand. Henderson — one-time pianist with such famous bands as Glen Gray, Tommy Dorsey, Skinnay Ennis and Artis Shaw — has played hotels, theatres, radio and motion pictures.

Casa Loma Orchestra Will Play Four Shows At Madison

Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra will present four different stage shows at the Madison theater Thursday, July 7, the Madison management announced today.

Featured in the personal appearance of the noted band will be "Fats" Daniels, Morgan Miller and Julie O'Brien. "Fats", a clarinet and vocal specialist, at one time had his own band but joined the Casa Loma orchestra in April.

Miller is one of the most popular of vocalists, while Miss O'Brien is a veteran of the musical world, having served with several of the nation's better known musical groups. She is a Canadian girl and an all-around athlete.

The Casa Loma orchestra considers its versatility as its chief appeal, swinging from romantic ballads to wild bounce tunes with little or no warning.

The orchestra will appear at 2:45, 5:15, 7:30 and 9:30 p. m.

On the screen will be the mystery-thriller, "The Checkered Coat," starring Tom Conway, Noreen Nash and Hurd Hatfield.

'Five-Per Centers' Gradually Quit Washington

100 Still Active In Capital

Number Drops As WAA Quits

WASHINGTON — (UP) — How many "five per centers" are doing business in Washington? And what is the government doing about them?

The concensus is that "management counselors" or "manufacturer's representatives" who work on a percentage-of-business basis have dropped from a wartime and post war peak of more than 200 to considerably less than 100.

One of the major reasons is that the War Assets administration, which disposed of war surplus costing more than $30,000,000,000 is folding up shop. It was a favorite field for the agent who signed up clients for five per cent of the value of any government contract he obtained.

Questioning of more than a dozen officials and lobbyists — who operate on a fixed fee basis — was prompted by recent stories about the "five per cent" activities of James V. Hunt, a former lieutenant-colonel in the army quartermaster general's office, later a WAA official and more recently a management counselor.

To get a general picture of the present activities of these "five per centers", the United Press talked with officials of the Commerce and Treasury departments, the Senate and House, the Economic Cooperation administration, former WAA officials, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, and half a dozen lawyers — registered lobbyists — who represent out-of-town clients on a salary basis.

Some were reticient to be quoted; others willing. All agreed that "you hear a great deal less about the activities of the five per centers than you did during and right after the war."

Some pointed out that there is nothing illegal in such operations. Others questioned the ethics of obtaining such contracts through bragging about "influence" with Washington high officialdom. All said they knew no "five per centers" as such.

'Buried' Man To Quit Grave

ZANESVILLE —(AP)— At 4:15 p. m. (EST) today, Raymond Emmert, new holder of the world's "buried alive" record, is to emerge from the underground coffin where he has lain 45 days.

Emmert, a 40-year-old unemployed Warld War II army veteran, holed in May 20, in an attempt to beat the record of another Zanesville man, L. McIntyre, who stayed down under for 42 days in Chicago in 1938.

Emmert has spent his time in a six-foot coffin under six feet of dirt. Since his "burial" Thousands of persons have peeked down the 10-inch opening that serves as his "observation post" and food elevator.

Richland Traffic Deaths Show 37 Per Cent Increase

toll occurred in May when four were killed.

Last year, for the same period, six had been killed in traffic accidents; one pedestrian had lost his life and one person was killed in a railroad crossing crash.

"It's up to each individual behind the wheel to practice safety at all times," said commissioner Boals. "A motorist can drive just within the law or he can be on the safe side and give the law the benefit of the doubt.

"It's not wise to take chances just because you have the right-of-way."

So far this year, 82 persons have been injured in city accidents, slightly lower than last year's toll of 94 injured in the same period.

Boals believes that every one of the 765 accidents this year could have been avoided.

"People don't take advantage of their vision whether they're driving or crossing streets on foot.

"A good test of this," he continued, "is to look straight ahead and see how much you can see out of the corners of your eyes.

"Try it, and you'll find you can see the curb and children who might be playing along the curb, the trees along the sidewalk, a person standing at the corner to cross the street, even a dog along the side of the street."

NOT SPEEDWAYS

And side streets are no speedways for motorists, Boals warned again.

"Every motorist must be more careful on side streets than on main thoroughfares. You never see children playing in the middle of West Fourth street, but you'll find them on the little-traveled streets like West Third, Second and First.

"The speed limit on these side streets is 25 miles per hour and even that's too fast to stop for a child who might dart out in front of a car."

Boals gave the same warning for elderly persons whose vision as well as hearing may be faulty.

"We must correct the indifference of motorists to 'minor' violations such as discourteous passing, cutting corners on turns, straddling a line or illegal crossing of center lines, using defective head lights, driving with a high beam in the approaching driver's eyes, etc. Some of them may be just within the law but the motorist who practices them is only practicing bad driving habits and endangering his own life as well as the lives of others."

An effort to hold accidents to a minimum is the annual car check which will be held during July in Richland and Ashland counties. Mansfield police and state highway patrolmen will work together in the project.

As in past years, the car owner may report for a mechanical check at the state patrol post on Ashland road or at the Mansfield police station. Mansfield garages, authorized by the state, will also check vehicles for mechanical faults.

When an auto measures up to the standards set by the state, a sticker, indicating that the car has been checked, will be placed on the windshield.

In addition to the check, the state patrol announced that periodic and unannounced checks would be held on the highways throughout the state during the month.

If any mechanical faults are found in the cars checked, the owners will be given a reasonable length of time for repairs and then will be ordered back in for another check.

Kiddies' Book Tells How To Read Story In Tracks

"Tracks and Trailcraft," by Ellsworth Jaeger' is a useful and informative book about animals' tracks, and it will be available to children Tuesday at the Mansfield Public library.

The books identifies the trails left by all kinds of animals from dinosaurs to the rabbits and mice in the backyard. It tells how to know the different tracks, how to trail an animal, and how to read the story told in the tracks.

'Judy at the Zoo," a picture book for younger children, is another new book available at the library

"Children's zoo, adults admitted only when accompanied by a child," is the way a sign outside a special zoo in the Bronx reads. A little girl named Judy went to the zoo one day and a man with a camera saw her and began to take pictures. He took pictures everywhere she went and of all the things she saw. The book of pictures with a short story is the result.

Here is a book that came because of a glass of milk and because a little girl asked her father how much a cow is worth. He said that anything is worth what it means to you. To prove it to the girl he told her some stories, and here they are for you to read in a book called MOST BEAUTIFUL HOUSE, by Hertha Pauli. There are five stories in the book, and one of them tells about the cow.

BRIDLED WITH RAINBOWS is a collection of poetry for young children, edited by Sara and John Brewton. It is divided into 12 sections, "Off to Somewhere", Bells in the City", "Happy be the Weather" and others. There are all sorts of poems here, for reading aloud, for learning and for dreaming about.

There's hardly a little girl who hasn't wished at sometime or other that she had been a boy. Cissie had a special reason for wishing it. You see, Cissie, had no parents, she was boarded around with her aunts, first with one and then with another. Then the aunts sent her to Uncle Eben to stay and Cissie knew at once that there was where she wanted to stay.

But Uncle Eben wanted a boy so Cissie worked as hard as she could to be as good as a boy so she could stay on PEACHTREE ISLAND. Mildred Lawrence wrote the book and most fourth and fifth graders will enjoy it.

JUST FOR FUN is a collection of stories and poems that are full of laughter. Elva Smith and Alice Hazeltine have worked together to make this one of the funniest collections, and they have succeeded well.

ONCE A COWBOY, by Charles Martin, is the story of Randy who went to spend the summer on the ranch. He went with a great big chip on his shoulder and soon had it knocked off. He found that he couldn't show off as he had planned, that he had to make some effort to fit in and be like the others. Once that was learned Randy had a grand summer — and the story of it makes grand reading for you.

in which they were riding overturned. The victims were Tommy Lebut, of Akron, and Mrs. Jean Motil, about 21, the bride.

Mrs. August Wireman, 69, of Alger was killed Saturday when she was struck by an automobile.

A retired Cleveland pipefitter, John Burlin, 68, was struck and killed by an automobile Saturday.

A two-car collision near Delphos caused the death Saturday of Joseph Stumpf, 77.

Claude Conley, 39, of Garrett, Ky. died in Willard hospital Saturday of injuries received Friday in an automobile collision.

Thomas Goodwald, 15, of Monaco, Pa., was killed when his automobile crashed into a hillside wall bordering an underpass in Wellsville, O.

Chester Smith, 45, and Mrs. Sue Still, 27, both of Hamilton were killed in an automobile which skidded for 600 feet along the Hamilton pike at the Butler-Hamilton county line and then rolled over into a ravine. The skidding car ripped out several hundred feet of fences and guard rails.

Four other occupants of the car were injured, one critically. A seventh passenger escaped unhurt. All seven were thrown clear of the wreckage. The group was enroute to a Newport, Ky., night club when theaccident occurred.

Electric Plans Bared

Power Plants Seek New Sites

NEW YORK — (AP) — American Gas and Electric company said today two electric power producers in its system are acquiring land for three new power stations.

Philip Sporn, American Gas and Electric president, said Appalachian Electric Power company is seeking sites on the Kanawha river, near Charleston, W. Va., and on the New river, not far from Glen Lyn, Va.

The third proposed plant will be built by the Ohio Power company about 12 miles south of McConnelsville, Ohio.

All three will be similar in design and capacity, built on the unit plan with two units per plant and each unit consisting of one 200,000 horsepower steam turjbo-generator.

Sporn said the proposed plants are part of a long-range program, that they will be strategically located with respect to coal and water supply and will be properly situated for economical delivery of power to American Gas and Electric's interconnected transmission system.

'Armed' Thief Smoked Out

STEUBENVILLE—(AP)— An intruder armed with a toy pistol was smoked out of Mayor Walter E. Sterling's office with tear gas after Police Captain William Consol reported seeing him rifling office drawers.

Consol said he saw the man, identified as Joseph W. Garlinger, 24, in the mayor's office when he left police headquarters in the same building to get a breath of fresh air in an adjoining alley.

When Garlinger brandished what turned out to be a toy pistol, Consol summoned two radio cruiser crews to surround the building. Garlinger surrendered when a tear gas bomb was lobbed into the office.

Ontario Club Girls Hold Wiener Roast

Ten members of the Ontario Merry Misses 4-H club met recently for a wiener roast at the home of Marge and Betty Farst.

A demonstration on the preparation of chili was given by Carl and Phyliss Henry. A variety of games were played and refreshments were served.

Plan Expedition In Search Of Noah's Ark On Mountain

ISTANBUL — (INS) — Four Americans, planning an expedition that may end the age - old search for Noah's Ark, awaited official permission for their search today, and hoped that Russian spy fears will not prevent it.

Russian wariness of alleged espionage last month prevented a British expedition from climbing Mt. Ararat, where the Biblical ship is believed to have run around after the "great deluge."

Pravda, the official Moscow organ of the communist party, labeled the British group "spies" when it became known they intended to scale Mt. Ararat, which dominates the East Armenian section of the Turkish-Russian frontier. Turkish officials, apparently wary of exciting her northern neighbor, quickly cancelled the expedition's permit.

Dr. Aaron Smith, of Greensboro, N. C., head of the current expedition, said that even if permission is granted for himself and his colleagues to scale the peak, he expects complications. The Russians, the doctor declared, will not hesitate to "sabotage" the search.

The three other expedition members who join Smith in believing the ark is imprisoned in a glacier on the sides of Mount Ararat, are Edmond J. Newton, of Colfax, N. C. Walte I. Wood, of Sea Cliff, N. Y., and W. C. Ogg, of Knoxville, Tenn

They intended to go to Ankara this week, and begin negotiations for permission to travel beyond Erzurum, the Turkish army's powerful eastern bastion.

10,000 On City's Fringes Lack Adequate Sewage Service

Water Facilities Also Scored

By GAYLARD HAKE

An estimated population of 10,000 that forms a fringe around Mansfield's corporation limits does not have adequate sewage disposal or water supply facilities, a health department survey shows.

The survey was conducted by Douglas P. Griffin, sanitary engineer for the Mansfield-Richland county board of health.

The condition was termed a "health hazard" and a "possible source of an outbreak of gastro-intestinal diseases," by Health Commissioner Harry Wain.

The survey disclosed there are 2,368 homes in an area of approximately one mile from the corporation limits with what was termed "inadequate sewage disposal."

Most heavily populated is the area east of the city. It includes such additions as Coolridge Heights, East Mansfield and Lincoln Heights.

"We can not say now how this condition could be corrected," Griffin said.

SURVEY NEEDED

"It will take an engineering survey and a great amount of study before any measure could be proposed to provide sanitary and storm sewers in the area," he added.

However, Amended House Bill 407, that has passed both houses of the Ohio legislature, and is awaiting Gov. Frank J. Lausche's signature before becoming law, will aid in correcting the problem here, health department officials said

The amended bill authorizes sewage disposal and water supply systems to be financed by mortgage revenue bonds, which would be paid off by property owners who receive the benefit.

Under the existing law funds to finance this type of project would be paid off by all county residents The project could be started only after it was approved by the voters of the county.

However, if Bill 407 is signed by the governor, the county commissioners will be authorized to start the project in the same manner as city council can order needed improvements within the city limits

The health department is going to continue its investigation of the situation and will hold meetings with interested parties to get their ideas, Dr Wain said

The "interested parties" were discribed as property owner groups in the various areas.

PROBLEM GENERAL

The problem is a general one, Dr. Wain said The areas spring up but are not within the corperation limits and so do not receive the benefits.

Health department officials pointed out an area like Bowman street allotments has a population greater than the village of Bellville, by the 1940 census figures. But still these urban communities are operating under rural sanitary conditions

Bandits Miss Cash

NEW DELPHI — (UP) — Bandits held up a bank in Ahmedabad as 500,000 rupees (about $150 000) was being loaded into a truck at the front door, but escaped with the wrong box Bank officials said the gunmen, leaving the cash behind, sped away by automobile with a huge box of account books.

IT'S NOT ALL WORK—Two freshman student nurses at General hospital relax in one of the comfortable lounges at the nurses' home during their leisure hours Miss Charlotte Allison of Wooster, looks through a record album while Miss Alice Johnson of Mt. Gilead puts her selection on the record player

PRACTICAL TRAINING—Miss Margaret Vogel, 546 Wood street, a student nurse in her junior year at General hospital, gives some ice to Mary Hanrahan, 660 Maple street, who had had her tonsils removed at the hospital Caring for patients is part of the student nurse's practical training.

Proud of Nurses' School, Copeland Says

By EILEEN DEWHURST

Supt Wayne A Copeland of Mansfield General hospital wants Mansfielders to visit the hospital school of nursing to learn about the work it's doing.

"I think it's about time Mansfield realized what a fine school for students we have here at General," Copeland said, in explaining the procedure by which a girl becomes a graduate and registered nurse.

Echoing Copeland's praise for the school was Miss Rachel Osbun, Mansfield, R. D. 2, a senior student nurse at the hospital.

"No profession could give a girl more satisfaction. I wouldn't exchange my training here for a good deal," Miss Osbun said.

Miss Osbun added she is receiving a lot of satisfaction out of applying what she has learned to the care of patients in the hospital

Copeland said "We will welcome anyone who may wish to make a survey of the school and its activities"

"There was a time years ago when student nurses got down on their knees and scrubbed floors as a part of their training but not in these modern times especially at General Hospital," Copeland said.

While student nurses may not live the luxurious "life of Riley" they do live a comfortable, well-arranged and adequately cared-for life at the Mansfield hospital

BEST OF EVERYTHING

They get the best food the dietary department offers, the use of one of the finest nurses' homes in this area, and every medical precaution available at the hospital, according to Copeland

The day of a student nurse at General is just eight hours long regardless of what she may do during that time If her classes consume four hours, for instance, the other four hours are spent on the floor and that ends her day. She doesn't extend her hours of theory. When on night duty nurses work only five days per week.

"Every student is given an annual physical examination," Miss Beal added, "and when she is ill she is taken care of at the hospital, which carries hospitalization on all student nurses. She has the benefit of X-rays, laboratory and other tests if she wishes them. In addition, she gets seven days of sick leave per year."

There is a full-time faculty to teach classes, all of whom have their degrees in a particular field. Miss Elaine Guiher is science instructor; Miss Jeanette Dowds, clinical teacher; and Mrs. Julia Raby is instructor of nursing arts

"Perhaps the best proof of the standards and standing of our nursing school here," Miss Beal said, "is that we already have 32 girls signed up for the fall semester as first-year students with several more to register"

Three graduates of the 1948 class at General hospital will supplement their training by taking post-graduate work beginning in October

Miss Gwendolyn Bowers, 41 Reba avenue, and Miss Joan Kunkle, Fredericktown, will spend six months at Children's hospital, Washington, D. C.

Fertile Crescent Plan Raises Middle East Tension, Tempers

CAIRO — (AP) — The "Fertile Crescent" plan again is causing explosive tensions in the troubled Middle East

In recent weeks intensive intra Arab political activity has centered on attempts by Iraq and Transjordan to revive the 30-year-old issue It is predicted a climax may come soon

The "Fertile Crescent" plan came into life in 1918-19 as the "Greater Syria" project

After the collapse of the Turkish empire, the Emir Hussein, head of the princely Hashemite family strove to become the sovereign of an Arab kingdom comprising Syria, Iraq, Transjordan, Palestine and Lebanon

These countries form the western part of Asia Minor They extend from Turkey and the Mediterranean to the Persian Gulf and the Arabian Sea

Hussein died, his dream still unfulfilled But his project remained close to the hearts of his two sons — Feisal, now dead, who became king of Iraq, and Abdullah, now monarch of Transjordan

Feisal was succeeded by his elder son, Ghazi, who died in a motor car accident in 1939 The present king, Feisal II, is a 14-year-old student at Harrow England Emir Abdul Illah, brother of Ghazi and nephew of Transjordan's King Abdullah assumed the regency.

The greater Syria plan lay dormant for years Formation in 1945 of the Arab league, composed of seven Arab states — Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq, Transjordan, Saudi Arabia and Yemen — appeared to have doomed the project.

The Palestine war brought the first signs that the Hashemite family remained actively interested in the project

King Abdullah told his Arab legion last April he still was pursuing his father's dream.

More recently the Iraqi premier, Nouri Pasha El Said, turned his attention to neighboring Syria. The March coup d'etat, which brought Colonel Husny El Zaim to power in Syria, appeared to offer an opportunity for pushing the project.

But preliminary moves met strong and immediate opposition from Syria, Egypt, the Lebanon and Saudi Arabia.

Syria warned the big powers not to interfere and Saudi Arabia and Egypt were reliably reported to have given similar warnings to the western powers

Egypt told El Pachachi in June according to high Egyptian sources "dismiss Nouri Al Said Pasha first Then we can talk"

That hasn't happened to date —and the Arab world remains split into two camps over the "Fertile Crescent"

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Obligations of Independence

IT WAS 173 years ago, on this very date, that the Declaration of Independence was signed, and ever since that time the word, "independence," has held highest place in the vocabulary of Americanism and has been an inspiration to less fortunate people all over the world.

With the idea of independence there is also the association of the principles of human freedom and self-government, with no more restraints than are necessary to protect against those who mistake liberty for license and who encroach upon the rights of others.

This Fourth of July finds the United States of America, as well as a great part of the world, in the position of groping toward an uncertain future, insofar as prevention of another war is concerned, although the situation appears more hopeful than a year ago when steps were being taken to resume the draft of young men into military service as a preparedness safeguard.

Now also, even more acute than a year ago, are domestic problems which weigh heavily, with much depending on intelligent solution.

While unemployment is said by economists to have not yet reached a "dangerous stage" it is nevertheless a serious matter to those directly affected, and this becomes a part of the whole economic picture in which further wage increases are being sought on one side while efforts to stem the inflationary tide are being made by those whose deep concern is with the general welfare, which has been neglected during the period of extremely high prices and inadequate housing.

Instead of the individual "independence," which is essential to preservation of that privilege on a national scale, there has been appearance of growing inclination to depend on "the government" for support and "security." It should not be lost sight of, however, that "the government" is no more than ALL OF THE PEOPLE acting through their representatives, and that "the government" can pay out no more than it takes in from those people in the form of taxes of various kinds.

These thoughts are presented for pondering on a day when patriotism is being given special emphasis by Americans who take pride in this nation's past achievements and who look with confidence to future solution of problems that are now puzzling.

Leisurely Vacation Trip Is Best

DONALD CULROSS PEATTIE, lover of nature in all its forms, is in agreement with Stevenson's theory that travelling is more fun than arriving. In an article in the New York Times, Peattie describes the joys of getting off the beaten path.

A tight schedule for a vacation trip is sometimes a necessity, but as a rule, a more restful vacation will result from throwing the schedule out of the window. Many towns and cities have historic spots and shrines which well repay a leisurely visit.

A day's stopover to savor the quality of a locality where history has been made gives children a sense of the actuality back of their textbook lessons. A ten-year-old girl who has spent a happy morning in the old Alcott home in Concord will re-read her "Little Women" with added pleasure. A whole afternoon spent in the home of the Liberty Bell, where they can almost see the ghosts of Washington and Jefferson in the rooms which held the meetings of the Continental Congress, will make history live for the small boys. And every locality has its own historic spots and scenic glories.

These never-to-be-forgotten impressions will remain when mileage records of a fast trip over hot pavements are long forgotten.

China Policy May Be Explained

USUALLY when a government issues a "white paper" explaining its part in some international affair, the presumed intent is to justify the government's policy for the benefit of the rest of the world. If the United States should issue a white paper on China, as the state department is reported to be contemplating, the purpose would probably be different.

The United States has little occasion to justify its China policy before the eyes of other nations, for their policies have been no less uncertain than our own. But many Americans, both officials and private citizens, have been bitterly disappointed in the failure of the government to find a way to rescue the Nationalists of China from disaster.

It might be for their benefit that a white paper would now be issued. The paper would probably attempt to show, revealing secrets long withheld but now no longer of any value, that changes in our policy were forced as idealism gave way to recognition of hard military and political facts.

It was the late Arthur Brisbane who suggested that a gorilla could win the championship against any heavyweight prize fighter—and in the present situation the idea seems to have possibilities.

Thoughts On July Fourth

By ANNE CAMPBELL

This is my country where I stand,
Pulling the weeds from my own land.
Watching the morning sun arise.
This is my home, and these my skies.

This is my country, where I see
The miracle of industry.
From a hearth fire my rough hands made.
Smoke drifts above the roof I laid.

This is my country where I hear
The speech of freedom ringing clear.
No hand upon my shoulder seeks
To check my joy when freedom speaks.

This is my country, where the choice
Is mine, and mine the asking voice.
From poverty I rise and stand.

Considering the Past, Present and Future.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Pro and Con of Federal Aid To Schools

THE controversy among high churchmen, educators and statesmen over the pending federal grant of $300,000,000 to the states for education seems to by - pass the real issue of principle. That issue is whether any grant of federal money, for anything, should be made without federal supervision and whether it is tolerable to have any federal supervision of our common schools.

Cardinal Spellman and Bishop Oxnam argue about whether some of the money should go to church schools. General Eisenhower says money ought to go only to states that genuinely need the money.

Herbert Hoover, no doubt facing the practical fact that the measure may pass, attempts to get Congress to limit its application and to provide safeguards.

The question that should be faced is whether this new federal invasion of the states should be permitted at all. There are other ways of helping and compelling states, where low standards exist, to improve their schools.

The bill now before Congress specifies 19 such states. Hoover believes, with excellent reasons, that only 12 are really too poor to educate their children. These states no doubt already receive grants in aid for several other purposes. They are of course spending money for other things such as roads, aid to agriculture, etc.

It might be possible and it would seem practical to grant them more federal money for these needs, on the condition that they shift more of their own money to their schools.

* * *

Offering a Suggestion.

ANOTHER alternative might be to grant the states that really lack money for teachers, books and supervision funds exclusively for material things such as buildings.

There could be no great injury to freedom in education in federal specifications regarding the cost per cubic foot of construction, fire protection, toilet facilities and the like. With some of the cost of new buildings lifted, states and local communities might use more money for teachers, books and supervision.

It is obvious from an examination of present grants in aid for all purposes and from the provisions of this bill in particular that the federal government, including Congress, has no real scientific and automatic yardstick to determine the economic needs of a state.

Such a matter could conceivably be reduced to a workable formula. Among the factors to be considered should be the taxable resources of the state; the tax burden on those resources; the level of private income in the state; agricultural and industrial production; money flowing into the state from outside dividends, travelers' and tourists' expenditures and the like; usable natural resources and many other items that comprise state wealth. Also to be considered is the relationship of the number of children to state wealth.

Such a formula was suggested during the past session of the Texas legislature in connection with state aid to counties. It is a distinctly original plan to provide an equitable means of determining aid on the basis of need.

Certainly, no state should get federal aid merely because it is able to advertise the wretchedness of its provisions for educating its children. Nor should it establish its case by refusing to tax its people properly or by neglecting its schools while it builds more highways, bridges and football stadiums.

The present bill has some brave words renouncing any intent to tell states what they should teach. But does anyone suppose that this self - denying ordinance will hold good in the future? Or can anyone believe that such a prohibition can be imposed upon bureaucratic busybodies?

Experience shows that wherever a federal dollar goes, a federal bureaucrat will be close behind. Like Mary's lamb, he will soon appear in school.

Looking Back

Twenty Years Ago Today

Thursday, July 4, 1929.

Well attended Fourth of July celebrations were held at North Lake park and Johns park.

Roller coaster and miniature railroad were placed in operation by Casino park.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Letteker, 74 Weldon avenue, were injured by being struck by auto on West Fourth street.

Miss Sara Carano and Anthony Gregoria were married in St. Peter's Catholic church.

Leistensnider-Schwartz family reunion was held at home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Guthrie moved from Washington avenue to Detroit.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Two new stars were added to the American flag on July 4, 1912, making the present total of 48 stars. The additions represented the new states of Arizona and New Mexico.

Washington Calling

Those Who Came Early

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — Looking back across the years, we in this great, rich powerful America find it hard to appreciate what a magnet for the rest of the world that other America was. Struggling, uncertain, poverty-stricken, the newborn republic was nevertheless a beacon of promise.

At the age of 19 the Marquis de Lafayette made his way to this country in spite of many obstacles. He offered himself as an ordinary volunteer in Washington's army even though he had been assured of a high commission before he left France.

Kosciusko, the Pole, came to fight for freedom, giving up comfort and an assured position. So did other liberty - loving men from all over Europe. The blaze that had been lighted on this shore was seen a long way off.

That may well be the most important difference between the intellectual and emotional climate of that first July Fourth and the anniversary we observe today.

There are powerful and narrowly prejudiced men who would shut out the refugee, the seeker after freedom. They would close the door forever and hang up a sign saying, "Not wanted."

These narrow and suspicious men have blocked the displaced persons bill in the Senate. It is the most conspicuous single failure of the present Congress, and that is saying a lot.

* * *

Unfulfilled Pledges.

JUST a year ago both parties pledged in their platforms to admit a reasonable number of displaced persons under a just law that would not discriminate against religion or race. The 80th Congress had permitted other meanly prejudiced men to block the way.

Organizations representing millions of voters of every faith and creed have approved decent legislation. The pitiful plight of the refugees has been depicted over and over again.

Many of them, and especially those from the Baltic countries, are refugees from the tyranny of our day. They would not go back to their homes, now under Soviet Russian rule, even if they could be safe there.

Devotion to the ideal of independence, freedom, personal integrity is too deep - rooted. So still they wait in the fourth year after the end of the war for some place of refuge.

Every now and then the news tells of a perilous journey in search of freedom of a few of the bolder or more fortunate among these men and women who have lived so long in a kind of purgatory. They have managed in some miraculous fashion to make their way across the ocean in a small, unseaworthy boat, two or three families banded together against the worst that wind and wave can do.

The other day a group of Finns reached the United States in this manner. They had come in a small sloop that any sane seafaring man would have hesitated to take out into Chesapeake Bay for fear of a sudden summer squall.

It is profoundly moving that that still happens. It means that the hope and the promise of America still live in the hearts of those who have suffered oppression and misery.

You can, of course, be cynical about it. You can say that they are coming in search of the almighty dollar, for security, for the glamourous life portrayed by Hollywood.

That would be partly true. But it would be only part of the story. The right of the individual to work and to make his own way is definitely a phase of the American dream.

This is a time when the Fourth of July must mean more than just an outing at the beach or a long week-end in the mountains.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Betterment Seen In Louisiana Politics

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It has been exactly 10 years since this column exposed the Louisiana scandals, resulting in the imprisonment of Gov. Richard Leche and various members of the old Huey Long gang.

Today, the Long family and friends have staged an amazing comeback. Huey's brother, Earl, is governor of the state. Huey's son, Russell, is U. S. senator from Louisiana. So the other day I went back to Louisiana—just 10 years after writing the first column on the Louisiana scandals—to see how the rebuilt Long machine is handling its comeback.

Things have changed a lot in 10 years. The name in the governor's mansion is still spelled "L-O-N-G," but the atmosphere is much different. It's calmer, less spectacular and far more serious.

Earl Long is giving the state such an even-keel administration that it's almost humdrum. The city of New Orleans, under young Mayor De Lesseps Morrison, is still rowing with the Long machine, but the row lacks the melodrama and bellicose pyrotechnics of Huey's day.

Most interesting development is the way many of the old Huey Long crowd have staged quiet comebacks. Seymour Weiss, former Democratic national committeeman, who went to jail for income-tax evasion, is now back running the Roosevelt hotel in New Orleans and going out of his way to be a patriotic citizen. Everyone respects Seymour's quiet comeback.

* * *

Leche Raises Flowers

GOVERNOR LECHE, who got 10 years for taking bribes, is living on his farm near Covington and raising flowers. His garden is so unique that tourists pay 75 cents to visit it.

Dr. J. Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State University, who got 30 years for embezzling university funds, is dead now. But before he died he was given a chance, as rehabilitation office at the state penitentiary at Angola, to help others who had suffered his misfortune.

Gov. Long was criticized for giving Doc Smith this job, but when Doc got out of jail he was refused a real estate license, found himself unable to make a living, and pleaded with the governor to send him back to the penitentiary where he could help rebuild others.

Dr. Smith knew something about the difficulty of staging a comeback, and thought he was qualified for this job, so the governor appointed him. He died, however, before very long in office.

Then there was George Caldwell, who went to jail for stealing WPA materials and padding WPA payrolls. He is now the leading building contractor in Baton Rouge. Abe Shushan, who built the New Orleans airport, is now back in the business of being an honest man. Monty Hart, of all those convicted, failed to stage a comeback. He committed suicide.

* * *

Huey Was Honest.

IT WAS always my belief that Huey Long — and I knew him well — was honest. He soaked the big oil companies, taxed the utilities and squeezed campaign contributions out of all sorts of people. But the money went back into free schoolbooks, better roads and a network of bridges that have left a lasting mark on the state.

Huey's brother Earl is a quiet, easygoing farmer, just the opposite of his brother's high-strung, ripsnorting bundle of nerves which once made Louisiana the most spotlighted state in the union.

Earl also has followed a soak-the-rich policy, induced his legislature to pass a heavy tax against the oil companies, put through free lunches for all school children regardless of their means, and has increased Negro schoolteachers' pay from $70 to $200 a month if they have a B. A. degree.

"The only way to have compulsory education is with free books and free lunches," says Governor Long, who has no children of his own. "Kids can't study when they're hungry, and an awful lot of kids down our way just don't get enough to eat."

I got into a discussion of farm methods with the governor.

"A pig," he said, "won't put on weight if it's unhappy. And a pig that is kept in cramped, dirty quarters is unhappy. A pig likes to keep himself clean just as much as a human being. When you coop him up in a lot of filth, he just doesn't put on weight."

I told the governor that I was going to quote him to my wife who was still irked at the ornate hog barn I had built featuring running water and upstairs duplex sleeping quarters.

The governor allowed that it would be almost worth a trip to Washington to see this, and we both agreed that womenfolk didn't really appreciate the importance of comfort and cleanliness in the life of a hog.

Housing Measure Wins

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—It is a commentary on something or other that it is not until this late date, seven months after the 81st Congress met, that the first major measure in President Truman's social welfare program, the housing bill, finally has passed both branches.

This is testimony to the determination and power of the forces that have banded together to try to repeal the last election and to stifle in Congress the very plain voice of the people last November.

For this legislation was among the pledges of the President which, if votes count for anything any more, was ratified by the surprising popular uprising in the last election. And just one pledge among many.

The drive to squelch the Truman Fair Deal has been effective not only in Congress, but also in the states. For new Democratic governors elected on the same sort of platforms for state action likewise have been stopped cold in their tracks on housing and similar measures in their amenable to pressure by business and financial interests.

There is the pattern of a national conspiracy directed against legislative bodies from bottom to top.

But, on the positive side, while one bill does not represent too considerable success, it nevertheless is a gain. Victory for the housing bill shows what can be done by constant slugging and makes at least the first dent in the barricade thrown up against the Truman program.

It is significant, and hopeful, too, that, aside from the 1946 full employment act, this is the first major social and economic measure in the domestic field to get through Congress since 1938 when the wage-hour act closed the era of New Deal reform.

This advance suggests that if the President can keep Congress here and keep the spotlight, as well as heat, on that body, he may yet have a fair record for the Fair Deal in the first year of his second term.

* * *

Sponsored By Taft.

WHAT Democrats gain from enactment of the housing bill in fulfillment of election pledges, republicans lose. The Republican party comes out of this legislative melee with a black eye because of the adamant attitude of its House leadership, which used every device to try to kill the bill, even though some of its House members were for it.

Except for the blockade thrown up by the House leadership not only this year but in its own 80th Congress, the party might have come off with credit.

For Senator Taft of Ohio, the party's outstanding leader in Congress, was a sponsor of this measure as he was of previous bills which the Senate passed on two other occasions in the past.

This throws in sharp relief the division within the party, and in the place where it is clearly visible to everybody — in Congress, where the record is made.

The House Republican leadership dramatized its attitude in the last Congress for President Truman to shout from every available stump in the 1948 campaign by bottling up the measure toward the end of the session in its rules committee, and just on the eve of its national convention where the party adopted a platform which read:

"We recommend federal aid to the states for local slum clearance and low-rental housing programs only where there is a need that cannot be met either by states and localities."

That need has been demonstrated and was recognized not only by Senator Taft in his leadership but also by the support of Senator Lodge (R. Mass), chairman of the resolutions committee that drafted the 1948 Philadelphia platform. The obdurate attitude of the House leadership effectively smudged the party's pledge and its record in Congress.

As Cerf Tells It

Sam Goldwyn and Danny Kaye are not very good friends today—their Damon and Pythias period ended when Danny signed a contract with Warner Brothers—but when Kaye was a star in Goldwyn's stable, there was no limit to the latter's ecstatic praise. "Some geniuses are just geniuses," was one of the more memorable encomiums — "but my Danny is a genius with talent."

What Is Americanism?

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS is America's day. But what does it mean to be an American?

When I was a child in Benicia, California, I feel free to admit that the Fourth of July meant new dresses, greased pig races, competing fire drills between the Bottle Hill Kids and the West End Boys—and unlimited firecrackers.

Of course old Daddy Dalton read the Constitution in the park but I felt no particular patriotism during this traditional oratory. I fretted and shuffled and had goose pimples. And you might as well admit, Nellie and Ned, that you did likewise at that age.

But later, and still later, I was to learn what real Americanism meant and what actually lay back of the Fourth of July.

Americanism was that shining dome which lay ahead of the great Union Station in Washington, with the thunder and the wonder of it sweeping through me and my marveling eyes.

Americanism lay in the austere Daughters of the American Revolution . . . and the old roads and battlefields that our great grand-fathers knew.

But those great grandfathers and great, great grandfathers were not the only creators nor the only one hundred percent Americans. They were not the only ones who brought the dream of independence to the American spirit and made the Fourth of July possible.

The Dutch and the French brought that vision to our shore and had as great a part in creating our culture as any original Puritan settler.

The Germans brought it and the Chinese who largely built the Union Pacific railroad brought it, and the silk clad Mandarins who followed them brought it. Even the first Russians brought it.

Every nation on earth has made America. Every nation on earth has dreamed of the Fourth of July. And so today I salute them all. I am grateful to them all.

Whatever their original code or creed, whatever their ancestral gods, I salute the hunger that brought them to America and made them become Americans and helped build America.

God bless them all! God help us all to maintain America through the nightmare of our present crisis!

Light Every Bicycle.

Every motorist knows the awful tragedy narrowly averted when he suddenly comes upon a bicycle being ridden on the streets at night without a light of any sort. Sometimes the tragedy isn't averted, and a youngster is killed or horribly crippled.

Careless disregard of safety ordinances as well as common sense rules is wholly inexcusable. Yet we have noted there are more bicycles ridden at night without lights than there are with them.

Parents who permit their boys and girls to ride bikes at night are guilty of negligence if they don't insist upon proper lights. A bicycle is a traffic hazard at any time, but the danger is multiplied many times after dark.—Ohio State Journal.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

GOVERNMENT refusal to recognize the blockade of Chinese ports was to be expected . . . It wasn't organized by Harry Bridges.

* * *

Bridges, on the basis of his two-month siege of Hawaii, could have told the Nationalist government they'd have to put out sampans with signs reading "Pass This Port By" to get recognition.

* * *

Of course the Berlin blockade was broken by an airlift but the Bridges' blockade stands firm unless Honolulu cares to move to Europe.

* * *

And for all the 48 states seem to care, the potential 49th state might as well move to China . . . The trouble with Hawaiians is they're Americans.

* * *

Hawaii does have a delegate in Congress but he's no match for Bridges' delegates in Hawaii and I don't see any government branch building muscles for him.

* * *

Plants now on vacation include Crawford Steel Foundry, Thew Shovel company, Sozonian Vault company, Swan Rubber company, Ohio Locomotive Crane, Galion Iron Works, Bucyrus Garment company, Ryder Brass Foundry and Bucyrus Castings.

One - week vacations are being taken by employes of Galion Iron Works, Bucyrus Garment company, Ryder Brass, Ohio Locomotive Crane and Bucyrus Castings. The remaining plants are closed for two weeks.

Two other local industries, the W. A. Riddell corporation and Shunk Manufacturing company, will not shut down for a vacation period.

Bucyrus Class Sets Reunion

BUCYRUS — First reunion of the Bucyrus high school Class of 1939 will be held at the American Legion home here Sunday, Aug. 14, John Gebhardt, local insurance agent and reunion chairman, announced today.

Notice of the reunion is being mailed to 120 class members, Gebhardt said. G. William Dustman, local American Legion commander, and Miss Maxine Krauter are other members of Gebhardt's committee.

Loudonville Scouts Plan Camping Trip

LOUDONVILLE — A group of Loudonville Boy Scouts will enjoy a five day camping trip to historic Fort Necessity on U. S. route 40 in the mountains above Uniontown, from Aug. 1 through Aug. 5.

Scoutmaster John Solomon and his assistant, Cal Sipes, announced eliminations will be held on the basis of Scouts that have proved the most proficient with their various tests with the understanding that they must hold a certain rank and have completed a set program before they are eligible for the trip.

Busy Sunday Schedule Set At Riverside Park

LOUDONVILLE — Two reunions, a homecoming and picnic were scheduled here Sunday. The Ball Alley homecoming was held at Stiet's Grove in Ball Alley.

The other three events are planned in Riverside park. The first reunion of the local high school's class of 1943 will be held at noon while the class of 1926 holds its reunion dinner at 1 p. m. The Happy Homeakers' picnic will be held at 12:30 p. m.

Loudonville Rotarians Plan Picnic July 12

LOUDONVILLE—The local Rotary club set July 12 as its picnic date at last week's meeting when officers were installed.

Charles Bernhard jr. was installed as president, Elmer Ebeling as vice president and Henry Helbert as secretary-treasurer. Gene Dawson was named chairman of the picnic committee while a budget committee was named including L. W. Dean, Max Wiggins, Perry Paullin and Henry Helbert.

Paper Reports Jesse James Was Honest Except When Pulling 'Jobs'

Pod'n Their Lorgnette: N. Y. Times are formal. Even the sports pages of the Tennis player Bobby Riggs is called Robert L. Riggs. And good old Jumpin' Joe is Joseph DiMaggio.

Huh?

Yankee fan Morton Shor calls him Joe DiMagnificent!

They were discussing that old Romeo who fleeced all those gullible gals out of their money.

"It just goes to show," said a midnighter, "how old you have to be before you can outsmart a woman."

Two communists were strolling around Rockefeller Plaza, the No. 1 spot in New York. The first was busy tearing down American institutions when the other interrupted: "It's always so cool here in Rockefeller Plaza."

"That's the perfect example of class distinction," sneered the first. "The rest of the city roasts, but Rockefeller Plaza—built by a millionaire—is always cool!"

Item: "Corsi Willing to Run for Mayor."

New way of spelling anxious.

Street Scene: Every day the Alger Hisses go to Federal Court (where Mr. H. is accused by Whittaker Chambers) via subway.

Then they walk to the Courthouse — and the first traffic light to halt them is at Chambers St.

American Mercury's L. Spivak relays Senator McGrath's definition of a reactionary: "One who wants to go back to the days of the balanced budget."

Libby Holman, the one - time blues thrush, sent this invitation to many people: "Celebrate the 4th of July with PAUL ROBESON at Libby Holman's, Merrybrook Lane, Stamford, Conn. Overheard at Cafe Chambord: "By the time he's finished talking about his money he's too tired to spend it."

Ending Britain's contribution to the U. N. Children's Fund, Ernest Bevin answered critics by grrrrring: "In this country we cannot go on giving away money all the time."

Manhattan Waitress Draws Check Every Four Years For Big Night

MANHATTAN SNAPSHOTS:

There is a waitress in a beanery here who should be in her heyday—if life really began at 40.

She lives entirely on the tips from patrons, and collects her wages from the boss only once every four years. The last time she asked him for her money he forked over $600.

My favorite New Yorker is George ("The Real") McCoy, the best armored man I know against misfortune.

Hard luck can't even dent—let alond break—this hack man's Falstaff. George, now in his middle years, was a pioneer sidewalk radio interviewer. He served as an army sergeant overseas, and he and his microphone gave belly laughs to scores of thousands of homesick troops on leave in Algiers and Naples.

Today this chucky, red-faced Irishman probably knows as many people around town as Jim Farley. The radio spots have been fewer in recent years, and George beats a living out of Broadway by driving a cab.

"Every day is a new day to me," he says. "Most people want to live and let live. I want to live and ad lib."

"I really take in only $10," he says. "But if I didn't work, I'd spend $10 — so that makes $20. On the other hand, if I didn't work, I'd have to borrow the $10 I'd spend — so, altogether, I'm really saving $30."

Currently "The Real McCoy" is worried over the way people in Manhattan are corrupting the pigeons.

"More pigeons getting run over every day," he says sadly, "and that's a shame. They have seen so many people jaywalking that they won't get out of the way of cars anymore. They're confused — they think they're pedestrians, too."

There is a middle-aged lady who lives in Greenwich Village and yearns to be an opera singer. She is taking lessons from a merry old rascal whose only training as a voice teacher is the years he spent tuning pianos.

Then she began strumming her own accompaniment on the piano, and started singing. Every few moments she would pause, uncork a small bottle, sniff from it vigorously, then quickly recork it again.

"What are you doing?" asked the amazed friend.

"Oh, the maestro told me all the best voices were trained in Italy," she said. "Since I can't afford to go there, he is importing Italian air for me in these bottles. It helps me immensely."

"Why do you keep putting the cork back in?"

"The maestro warned I must use the air sparingly," said the lady complacently. "It's expensive to import. I pay him $1.50 a week for each bottle."

136 Girls Join First Camp Group

5-Day Scout Session Opens Thursday

Part of the largest group of girls ever to attend Girl Scout day camp will go to Camp Niniwan Thursday for the opening of the first five-day session of camping.

Miss Margaret Rooney, executive director of Girl Scouts and director of the camp, said 136 girls have registered to attend the first period for intermediate scouts between the ages of 10 and 14.

An additional 177 Brownies, between the ages of seven and 10, have registered for the second period which will begin July 14.

The two age groups make a total of 313 campers who will enjoy outdoor life at Camp Niniwan this summer. Last year a total of 199 girls attended day camp.

PERIOD DATES SET

Dates for the first camping period are July 7, 8, 11, 12, and 13. The second period will be held July 14, 15, 18, 19, and 20.

Indian life will be the theme of this year's day camp. The girls will be taught to enjoy nature, with an emphasis on being comfortable in the out-of-doors. They will be taught to use inexpensive materials and materials provided by their surroundings.

Miss Rooney said the camp program will be an outdoor continuation of the Girl Scout program with girls working toward a definite goal.

An important part of the daily program will be the singing of Grace before each meal and the flag raising and lowering ceremonies. Miss Rooney said these two things illustrate the part of the Girl Scout promise which says "I will try to do my duty to God and my country."

The campers will make creative, usable articles in handicraft classes. The Brownies will make raffia moccasins and bracelets and the older girls will do basketry work, an old Indian craft. There also will be woodcarving, making of tom-toms, costumes, and masks.

Miss Marjorie Boals and Miss Sally Ashbaugh will teach archery to the older group.

Miss Marilyn Little will be in charge of Indian songs and dances and Mrs. George Hart in charge of crafts.

The camp program also will include original dramatics, games' hiking, nature study, and cooking out.

The girls will make their own wigwams of burlap donated by Scattergoods and will paint designs on them. These tents will be their homes during the day unless it rains and then the girls will move into the cabins.

Mrs. E. G. Pankow will be assistant camp director and consultant on nature and outdoor cooking, and Mrs. Harold George will be camp nurse.

Twenty-four councilors will be in charge of the girls the first period, and 28 councilors the second. All councilors are 18 years old or older, and the majority of them have had at least 18 hours of training.

NEW ROAD — Earth-moving operations on the new Route 13 around Mansfield airport are coming along faster than expected, according to County Engineer Walter E. Rusk. A section of the new highway which is expected to carry travel by Sept. 1, is shown above as men and machines push back the earth. The area shown at top is a short distance from where the cut-off rejoins the present route north of the airport. At right, a huge tractor - pulled earthmover rolls past the camera.

House Repair Up To City

Clear Fork Plan Before Council

City council will be asked to appropriate $1,500 from the general fund for repairs at a house that will be occupied by the caretaker at Clear Fork reservoir.

A resolution authorizing the transfer of $1,500 from the general fund to a special fund for repairing the house is scheduled for council action Wednesday.

The ordinance creating the caretaker's position stipulated he would have the home, rent free, and the salary was fixed accordingly.

However, the house in its present condition is not suitable for occupancy, city officials said.

The resolution lists the work to be done as including the drilling of a well, installation of a pump, bathroom fixtures and a septic tank.

Plant Closes Two Weeks

A. L. Allen, personnel director at the plant, said all operations at the factory are closed down and that only a few of the maintenance crew will remain during the two-week period.

Empire will return to normal operations on July 18, Allen said.

Next factory "vacation" scheduled in the city is at the Westinghouse plant where operations will be halted during the last week in July and the first week in August.

Death Claims Mrs. Brindle

Mrs. Jennie Brindle 80, Crider Road, Mifflin township, died Sunday morning at Peoples hospital after an illness of two weeks.

She was the widow of William Henry Brindle.

Born in Ashland County June 25, 1869, Mrs. Brindle sent the greater part of her life in this vicinity. She was a member of The First United Brethren church.

Surviving are one son W. Ray Brindle, and one daughter, Mrs. Claude Hout, both of Mansfield R. D.; three sisters, Mrs. Leah Kagey of Mansfield, Mrs. Nora Riley and Mrs. Anna Stillwagon of Ashland; one brother, George Workman of Ashland, six grandchildren; and seven greatgrandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in charge of Rev. V. C. Stamets, pastor of the United Brethren church. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

Rites Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Hannabelle Henderson Whitman, 70, who died at her home in Mansfield Saturday, will be held Tuesday at 3 p.m., at the Finefrock funeral home. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. Rev. A. F. Lindbeck of the Mayflower Congregational church will officiate.

New Airport Road To Be Ready Sept. 1

By JOHN FISHER

The new State Route 13 around Mansfield airport will be completed Sept. 1, two months ahead of schedule, County Engineer Walter E. Rusk believes.

The new route will run east of the airport and along the Erie railroad right-of-way for a considerable distance and then back to the old route north of the port.

It will replace a temporary road built in 1944 by the city and county after a section of Route 13 was abandoned to make room for the airport runways.

Grading of the new road is completed as well as the necessary drainage and culverts, Rusk said. The new road will be three and a half miles long.

The new two-lane highway will be 24 feet wide with 12-foot berms, or shoulders on both sides. The road will be built of a cushion course of gravel, covered by 10 inches of waterbound macadam and topped by a black top surface.

The city and county also provided $50,000 toward the cost of construction of the new road. Federal and state funds will finance the balance of the cost of the $300,000 project.

Contractor on the job is A. J. Baites of Norwalk.

Completion of the new section of road and improving of old Route 13 north of the airport will provide a shorter and better route to the Lake Erie cities and resorts from Mansfield.

Since the airport was built motorists have had to use the rough and crooked detour or go north over the Bowman street or Olivesburg roads.

Restaurant Owners Meet

Food sanitation problems will be discusses by Mansfield restaurant owners and operators and the Mansfield-Richland county boards of health at a meeting Wednesday evening.

The meeting will start at 8 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Health Commissioner, Harry Wain announced.

The restaurant owners and managers are being notified by mail of the meeting and are asked to send a member of their staff if they are unable to attend, Dr. Wain said.

The meeting will include a discussion of the health department's food sanitation program and a movie on food sanitation, he added.

The big flowers that thrive on heat and lack of care are taking over for the roses and late spring flowers that have been faded by the heat. Hollyhocks are so rugged and attractive that the state highway departments is using them to beautify the roadsides.

Beans Blow Gaping Holes In Restaurant

LONG BEACH, Calif. — (AP) — At least one restaurant customer here will probably swear off eating beans for a long time to come. They're too powerful.

Here's what happened when a large pressure cooker full of beans exploded in the restaurant:

It blew out three large plate glass windows; blew an 18-inch hole in the ceiling; blew beans in all directions; cracked the plaster, and splattered customer Robert T. Davis with beans from hair to toe.

Alarmed nearby residents called police to ask, "what blew up?"

Senate Probe Hinted

Robertson Blasts UMW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Robertson (D.-Va.) Sunday questioned the legality of John L. Lewis' order putting most of the nation's coal miners on a three-day work week. He said a Senate inqury will take a look at it.

"I can't believe that Congress, in exempting unions from the anti-trust laws, ever intended to confer on any union the right to control production and thereby to control prices," Robertson said.

The Virginian added that the matter "is bound to come up" at a Senate banking committee investigation of various phases of the coal industry's operations. The committee plans to start the inqury late this month or early in August.

Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers, has instructed all soft coal diggers except those working western mines to go on a three-day week starting Tuesday when the miners' annual vacation ends.

The order departs from the traditional UMW policy of "no contract, no work." The union's contract with the operators expired June 30, and negotiations looking toward a new agreement have been halted until July 12.

HITS SOFT COAL

The three-day week applies only to soft coal. The hard coal, or anthracite, industry in eastern Pennsylvania has a voluntary allocation system in which representatives of the state, the union and the mine operators meet every week to fix production based on anticipated demand.

Negotiations for a new hard coal contract are due to start Thursday at Philadelphia.

Lewis' edict comes at a time when there is a record supply of coal above the ground. Reduction of that supply would improve the UMW's bargaining position.

The coal producers said that Lewis, in issuing his order, was disregarding "the economic needs of the public, the welfare of his union members and their families, and his contract with the operators."

Robertson told a reporter that Congress ought to check up on whether Lewis has any legal right to curb production.

9 In Raid Still Held

The nine persons arrested in a surprise raid at 34½ West Fourth street shortly after 8 p. m. Saturday were still being held late Sunday, police reported.

Two of the girls, one 13 years old and one aged 22, were from Mansfield while the other two were from Greenwich and Akron. The men, ranging in age from 19 to 27, gave their addresses as 34½ West Fourth street.

The nine, four girls and five youths, were jailed after neighbors complained of cursing and "wild parties" in the apartment.

Officers are still investigating the complaints of neighbors that numerous teen-aged girls were involved in wild parties at the apartment, Captain Clare Kyler said last night.

Rites For Child To Be Held Tuesday

Funeral services for Clinton Scott Adkins, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adkins, 646 Boyle road, will be held Tuesday at 11 a.m., at the Pentecost church. Rev. Allen Wolf will officiate. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home until 10 a.m., Tuesday. The baby died at his home Saturday afternoon.

G. L. Moore Dies At 47

George Lyman Moore, 47, of 679 Arlington avenue, died unexpectedly of a heart attack about 4 p. m. yesterday on the lawn at the home of Howard D. Baker near Adario.

Mr. Moore was secretary of the Modern Woodmen of America in Mansfield and superintendent of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church Sunday school. He was making a call at the Baker home when he was stricken.

He was born in Freedom, Pa., June 24, 1902, and came to Mansfield 38 years ago. He was an electrician at the Westinghouse plant, and a member of Lodge 35, F. and A. M., and the St. Matthew's church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Gladys Moore; a daughter, Pat, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moore, and two sisters, Mrs. Forest Mitchell, and Mrs. Ann Smith, all of Mansfield.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home. Arrangements had not been completed late last night.

W. H. Linder Dies In Marion

Walter H. Linder, 53, father of Mrs. Robert Crowe of Mansfield and a native of Morrow county, died yesterday morning at City hospital in Marion.

An employe of the Ohio Public Service company 32 years, he had lived in Marion one year longer. He was a member of Epworth Methodist church, Marion; American Legion, and the Masonic lodge.

Besides the daughter in Mansfield, he is survived by his wife, the former Iloe Bending; a son, Richard, of Marion, and a brother, Roy, of Cardington.

Services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. at the Schaffner-Denzer funeral home in Marion, with Rev. V. E. Busler of the Epworth church officiating. Burial will be in the Caledonia cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7:30 p. m. today.

Boy Enters Shop; Ordered To Court

A West Sixth street boy was ordered to appear in Juvenile court tomorrow after being identified by Nick Kaperonis, 152 North Diamond street, as the youth who broke into his hat shop Saturday night.

Kaperonis, whose shop is at Fourth and Walnut streets, suspected the boy and decided to wait outside his shop last night. About 11:45 p. m. the boy opened the door with a key and went inside. Kaperonis latched the door on the outside and called police. The youth got out by the time officers arrived, but they went to his home and ordered him into court.

Independence Means Respect For Others, Pastor Says

Despite the heat and a few too friendly mosquitoes, more than 100 Mansfielders attended the summer's first Sunday evening outdoor religious services last night at South park

When it was found that the necessary power would not be supplied to the organ for the song accompaniment, Rev. Samuel U. J. Peard jokingly explained that it was "just another inconvenience a Christion must put up with." The congregation came back with a lusty rendition of "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Taking for his theme "The True Meaning of Independence," Rev. Peard, rector of Grace Episcopal church, said:

"If we keep before us the real meaning of democracy and Christianity, then we have the true meaning of independence revealed before us."

He remarked that not all heroism is born of war, that great heroism is in between wars "when people carry on the every-day practice of independence."

"We know, in part, what independence is, but most of us think of it as what we'd like to have it be.

"Some people think independence is burning a rubbish pile anywhere on their property, regardless of where the smoke and odor go, or of waiting until the neighbor hangs out the wash and then burning their papers.

"Independence or liberty was born of struggle, but as it was born of struggle, it was born of law. Only as we obey the law can we have independence. The only way you'll have freedom of any kind, in your own life or on an international scale, is in terms of the law and the respect and concern for freedom for the rest of the world."

Rev. Peard added that "Christian people are going to have to continue to minister to the needy of the world.

"That," he said, "is the one concrete way in which American people can show to the world Christian ways and Christian action."

Informal Supper Parties Are Easy and Lots of Fun

Informal supper parties are part of the fun of summer. Leave to the winter season the more formal affairs and relax and enjoy casual get-togethers with your friends.

There's little work for the hostess with this meal. If you have a chafing dish, use it for your buffet table service. Drop the franks into the hot barbecue sauce in the chafing dish and let them poach 5 to 8 minutes or until heated through. The chocolate cake is a day-before or early morning preparation that is well out of the way by the time the guests arrive.

No longer simply picnic fare, franks now proudly grace the menu for casual or sophisticated dinners. Quality franks are a favorite of everyone and particularly during the summer, it is smart to serve this easily prepared meat Because the franks are thoroughly cooked when you purchase them, you need only heat them through before service. This allows you more time in the garden or with the family or guests before preparing dinner.

Franks are good news nutritionally, too. Nutritionists now tell us that top quality franks are as good for you as they are good to eat. The tender beef and juicy pork they contain furnish the high quality proteins we all need Scientists further state that because of their long slow cooking at temperatures far lower than are possible in the home, franks actually may contain more nutritive value than the same beef and pork made into a homemade meat loaf!

Here is the recipe for the franks in barbecue sauce as well as for tempting frank and hot potato salad combination:

BARBECUED FRANKS

Prepare a think barbecue sauce. Add franks and heat 5 to 8 minutes. One cup of sauce is sufficient for 1 pound of franks Serve in buns with the sauce or serve on hot rice

Thick Barbecue Sauce
Yield 1 pint sauce
2 small onions
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon chili powder
¾ cup water
1 teaspoon salt

Mince onion very fine Mix all ingredients in a heavy skillet Cover and simmer about 45 minutes May be kept in covered container in refrigerator to be used as needed

MRS. JUSTIN ALFRED SEILER

WED SATURDAY—In a lovely formal ceremony at Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian church, Mt. Lebanon, Pa., Miss Marian Elaine Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Curran Little, 541 Landsdale place, Mt. Lebanon, and Justin Alfred Seiler, 347 Park avenue west, were united in marriage yesterday. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Harriet Seiler Hike of Mansfield. Vows were exchanged at 4 30 o'clock with Dr. William Seiler of Mansfield and Miss Patricia Burns of Flat Rock, Mich., as best man and maid of honor, respectively. Bridesmaids were Miss Doris-Marye Annand of Arlington, Miss Virginia Jenkner of Turtle Creek, Pa., and Mrs. Wallace Fertig of Mt. Lebanon. Ushers were Robert C Little of Mt. Lebanon, Edwin Seiler of Omaha, Neb., William Nixon and Dr. Eugene Oswalt of Mansfield The bride wore an ivory Skinner's satin gown with net yoke, made with drop shoulder effect, Princess sleeves and long court train. Her bridal illusion fingertip veil was held in place by a bonnet trimmed with orange blossoms and streamers. The attendants wore coral nylonette over coral taffeta, with drop shoulder neckline, full skirts, silver sandals and mitts and matching coral nylonette bonnets with streamers. The bride carried white orchids and stephanotis and the attendants carried fan-shaped bouquets of blue delphinium and white glads, tied with pastel streamers. Mrs. Little chose a powder blue La Lique gown over matching taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of white glamelia. Mrs. Hike was attired in a two-piece ice-blue crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Following the the service a reception was held at Mt. Lebanon Women's club. Later the couple left for a trip to Pocono Mountains Upon their return they will reside at 109 Carpenter road.

Plan Your Wedding Reception and Menu

By ANN SCHOENMAN

THIS STORY is for brides-elect who, along with having to decide between orange blossoms and calla lilies, "I Love You Truly" or "Oh, Promise Me"; whether your bridesmaids will look lovelier in daffodil yellow or pale green, shopping for your trousseau, dress fittings, fixing the house and surprise showers—still have to select the right refreshments for the wedding reception

The size of your home, the amount of linen, dishes and glassware will help to determine the size of your reception. It may be a simple affair, with just a wedding cake and fruit punch to toast the bride—or it may be much more elaborate.

If you have a great deal of room, or if the reception is small, it's nice to have all the guests seated at the bridal table. If your dining room can't accommodate a party like this, serve the wedding party at the bridal table and seat your guests at smaller tables in nearby rooms.

For a very large reception, the simplest, easiest way to serve is buffet style. Set up a long table in the dining room or garden, and cover it with your prettiest white damask cloth. Place a bouquet of fresh white flowers in the center with silver or white tapers on either side. Arrange the food, plates, forks, spoons and napkins on the table, and invite the guests to serve themselves.

You cut the first slice of the wedding cake and share it with that new husband of yours. Then comes your chance to please your dearest friend by asking her to cut the rest of the cake.

The kind of reception depends on the time of the wedding ceremony. If your marriage is before 12:30 p. m. have a breakfast or brunch; after 12:30 but before 2 serve a luncheon; after 2 but before 6 select tea-time food; 6 to 8 prepare a dinner, and after 8 the best is a buffet supper or party food.

Fresh Strawberries with Caps and Powdered Sugar or: Orange sections, Grape and Melon Ball Cup
Scrambled Eggs in Corn Muffin Rings
Crispy Ham Melba Toast Jam
Coffee

If you're going to have a wedding luncheon or dinner then here's a menu which will fit any group:

Reception Punch
Jellied Tomato Juice Consomme
Oven-Fried Chicken
French Asparagus
Julienne Potatoes
Relish Bouquets and Cucumber Slices
Hot Roll Bowknots
Assorted Ice Molds Petits Fours
Nuts Bride's Cake Candies
Coffee

Listed below is a menu for your tea-time foods for the afternoon wedding:

Assorted Tea Sandwiches
Pastel Mint Patties Nuts
Sea Foam Divinity
Orange Blossom Creams
Bride's Cake
Blended Fruit Punch Coffee

Chicken Salad Ring
Combination Vegetable Salad
Baked Rice with Mushrooms
Crescent Rolls
Bisque Tortoni Assorted Cookies
Nuts Coffee Candies

TO BE WED

LOUDONVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hess of Ashland R. D. 2 are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to Richard H Jordan, son Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jordan of Loudonville. An open church wedding will be an event of August 28. Mr. Jordan will attend the national academy at Newport R. I. this summer and Miss Hess is a senior and is attending summer school at Ashland College.

Open House To Be Held For Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Powell will observe their golden wedding anniversary today, at their home in Edison, Ohio. An open house reception for friends will be held between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The wedding of half a century ago took place in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Welbourn at Edison.

Mr. and Mrs. Powell have been residents of Morrow County practically all of their lives, Mrs. Powell being born and raised in the Boundry community and Mrs. Powell being born on a farm north of Mt. Gilead and raised in Mt. Gilead.

For two and a half years after their marriage, they resided in Shelby, Ohio and for ten years between 1920 and 1939 they made their home in Ashland.

In early years, both were active in K. of P. lodge work. For many years, Mr. Powell was employed by the Hydraulic Press Mfg. Company, having started to learn the machinists trade at H-P-M in 1895. For nine years he was in charge of the company's erecting shop. He retired from the company in 1943.

The celebrants are parents of four children. . .Mrs. B. O. Nugent of Shelby, Mrs. E. M. Kutz of Wooster, Charles C. Powell of Massillon and Russell W. Powell of Mt. Gilead. Grandchildren include Richard Kutz of Milwaukee, Mary Alice Kutz and Annabell Kutz of Wooster, Charles and Nancy Powell of Massillon, and one great grand-daughter, Jaylene Kutz of Milwaukee.

The only living guest who attended the wedding 50 years ago is Mrs. Nellie Irey of Marion, Ohio.

Mrs. Powell has been actively engaged in church work all of her life and is a member of the W. S. C. S. of Edison. She is also a member of the Edison Profit and Pleasure Club.

Wedding Vows Exchanged By Miss McCaffrey, Mr. Badgley

CRESTLINE — The English Lutheran church was the scene Friday of the nuptials of Miss Mary Louise McCaffrey and Russell Owen Badgley, of Leesville with Rev. Simon A. Metzger solemnizing the vows.

Miss McCaffrey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McCaffrey, 502 Scott street. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Frank Scott and the late Arthur Badgley, of Leesville.

Mrs. Simon A. Metzger was the organist for the double ring service. The music began at 3:30 p. m. and the wedding vows were repeated at 3:45 p. m. Ferns, palms, two seven branch candelabra, two beauty baskets of mixed flowers and two altar vases of white carnations decorated the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with seed pearls and leg o' mutton sleeves which ended in points over her wrists. The tight bodice ended in a full skirt with a slight train. Self covered buttons trimmed the waist in the back of the gown.

Her silk illusion veil, of finger tip length, was attached to a high tiara of seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls which was a gift from the bridegroom.

She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid. The Bible was a gift from the bride's uncle and aunt, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Frank, of Nashville, Tenn.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Floyd Bauer, of Crestline, served as matron of honor. She wore a gown of lavandar taffeta fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline with a double bertha collar and full skirt. A bustle created the back effect. She wore a tulle headpiece, white nylon mitts and a gold rhinestone necklace. Her colonial bouquet was composed of yellow and white carnations, tied with yellow ribbon.

The bride's mother was attired in an aqua bemberg print dress with pink accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink shantung dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of pink and white carnations.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony. A four tiered wedding cake, topped with plastic bells and a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the serving table. Those who served were Pam Guinip, Mary Winemiller, Joan Hoffman, Mrs. David Altaffer, Mrs. Greg Pennington, Mrs. John Steffre and Mrs. Oscar Tracht.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Canada after the reception. The bride wore a white sharksin suit with white accessories and an orchid corsage. They will be at home after July 16 at Galion.

Mrs. Badgley is a graduate of Crestline high school and is now a student at the Minnick Beauty school in Mansfield. Mr. Badgley is a graduate of Galion high school. He spent two years in the Navy and is now an employe of the North Electric Manufacturing company, in Galion.

Suggestion For Wedding Breakfast

"Colorful and gay looking and wonderful to eat", your guests will say when you serve "Wedding Breakfast Cocktail". Be sure to cut the Calavo balls so that some of the rich deep green color of the outer rim shows It is perfect with watermelon and cantaloupe

Wedding Breakfast Coctail

1 cup Calavo balls
1 cup watermelon balls
1 cup cantaloupe balls
½ cup honey
½ cup lemon juice

With French ball cutter or the half - teaspoon size measuring spoon, scoop out balls from peeled Calavo halves. Prepare melon balls of similar size. Combine fruits in equal quantities in stemmed glasses. Combine honey and lemon juice and pour over fruits just before serving Serve well chilled

JULY FOURTH PICNIC

Porch or back yard suppers are fun to get ready and fun to eat. A pot of baked beans, some cold cuts of meat and a large platter of ripe olives and relishes will be just about everything you'll need for a good Fourth of July menu. Have a bowl of cookies and assorted fresh fruits for dessert. To prepare the beans a speedy way, start with canned baked beans. Empty them into a casserole and combine with some brown sugar, minced onion and dry mustard. Then top with bacon bits and bake in a moderate oven half an hour.

Looking Through . . .

The Fashion Spy Glass

The new fashion notes for Fall and Winter are beginning to come fast and furiously to our desk. In one respect they all concur-the new note for next season is "tweediness".

You remember that we got a smattering of tweed suits toward the end of last winter and we mentioned that it looked like the prelude to a big fashion item next year.

Now, designers are doing wonful things with tweeds. The New York fashion houses are trimming their tweed suits with fur and velvet. The fur trimmed suits are somewhat prohibitive in cost but the velvet trims are a thing to be reckoned with.

These designers are producing the tweeds in bright colors with velvet accessories to pick up the predominant shades: such as kelly green velvet on green-beige tweeds; scarlet velvet on red-grey tweeds; royal blue velvet on blue-gold tweeds.

If your pocketbook is interested in the fur accents on the new suits, nutria, beaver and seal will be most popular because of their soft, neat, lay-down qualities.

And to go with your "tweedy look" the Sweater Girl is back. Designers are even making cocktail and dinner dresses with knitted tops. Sweater bodices may be high-necked and sophisticated or collared and sweet. Some have push-up sleeves and some have the more dressy capped sleeves. Look for ultra-casual look next season from sport to evening wear. It will be the biggest fashion change this year.

About Ball Lights And Other Stuff From Sportdom

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

FROM THE MAIL BAG:

Dear Fred:

Or should I start this letter "Why hasn't Mansfield a lighted ball field?"

Having played ball in Mansfield a number of years, I find that a lighted ball field is the subject most players talk about. When you ask anyone about it you get the same answer all the time, "No money." But it sure seems funny towns like Ashland, Prospect, Howard and Shelby, not half the size of Mansfield, can have lighted ball fields while Mansfield doesn't.

I asked Stan Kamen of the Department of Recreation and found out that he has only $15,000 to run all activities for one year. That is very little. Stan knows better than anyone we needed a lighted field. With the increasing number of ball teams he just hasn't the parks to play them in.

So there's another year gone by and still no lights. Well, that's all I have to say. But I do hope the parents of all the young ball players and all of the people of Mansfield who are interested in sports find some way for Mansfield to get a lighted ball field.

HOWIE WALDMAN.

(Editor's Note: Many times the Stuffer has also bemoaned the fact that Mansfield does not have lighted baseball and softball facilities. The reason is lack of money. We're told that city funds which might be directed towards lighted fields must go into the Clear Fork project and the airport. The only hope appears to be if some persons or persons would donate a lighted park to the city. Take the plight of Ennis Walker, junior baseball commissioner. The city has one full-size baseball field (Liberty park). On this field Walker must try to schedule 10 or 12 teams in the 15-16 and 17-18 year-old leagues in two games apiece each week. These games are played in the evening since many of the youngsters work. Walker's only hope to schedule all the games is added use of a diamond at Ontario and Tillman's park, home of the Mansfield Hawks and Mansfield AC. If this fails the ones that will suffer are the Mansfield youngsters who want to play ball but cannot because of the lack of diamonds.)

HERE'S A CUTIE: Did you ever hear of a center fielder who caught a foul fly? Well it happened 10 years ago at Wichita, Texas . . . Joyner (Jo Jo) White, the former Detroit Tiger outfield star, was the lad that turned the trick. White is now a Pacific Coast league manager but when he pulled the unique catch he had just gone down to the minors . . . A towering fly in short center was carried by the wind with Jo Jo chasing the ball . . . In fact, he chased it over the right field foul line and just nabbed it in foul territory . . . His manager was so infuriated that Jo Jo did not pull up and let either the first or second baseman make the catch that he benched him on the spot.

CUFF STUFF: Five Cleveland Browns recruits have now received invitations to appear in the 1949 college all-star football game in Chicago August 12. . . . The list includes former Senior high star Dave Templeton. . . . Others are: Center Tommy Thompson, William and Mary; Tackles Ray "Sugar" Evans, Texas Mines, and Ted Hazelwood, North Carolina, and Halfback Gene Derricotte, Michigan. . . . Gene Woodling, who got his pro ball start with the Mansfield Braves eight years ago, was No. 2 among the Yankee outfielders in the all-star baseball poll. . . . Woodling was accorded 121,596 votes which gave him 20th place. . . . He was well ahead of such fellows as Johnny Lindell, Buddy Lewis, Stan Spence, Dick Wakefield and Thurman Tucker. . . . Statistics now favor the New York Yankees to win the American league flag. . . . In the 48 years the loop has been in operation, the club in front on July 4 has come out on top 31 times. . . . And it has held true for the last eight years. . . . The Yankees have won 15 pennants and on 12 of these occasions the Bronx Bombers were ahead on July 4. . . . Last year, Cleveland was on top by only one game at a corresponding date, but won the flag. . . . Navy must dote on tough football schedules. . . . Take a look at the 1949 slate: Southern California, Princeton, Duke, Wisconsin, Penn, Notre Dame, Tulane, Columbia and Army. . . . Pass the smelling salts.

Cleveland Takes Two From Browns

Jim Hegan Breaks Up Second Tilt

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A bases loaded single by Jim Hegan in the 10th inning enabled the Cleveland Indians to defeat the St. Louis Browns 4-3 in the nightcap of a doubleheader yesterday. The Tribe snuffed out a ninth inning Browns' rally to take the first game, also 4-3.

The twin victory before 34,586 shoved the Indians into third place in the American league standings.

A two-base throwing error by Third Baseman Roy Sievers on Joe Gordon's infield hit put the Tribe second baseman on third with none out in the 10th. Manager Lou Boudreau and Bob Kennedy then were purposely passed by relief hurler Tom Ferrick before Hegan broke up the game.

A three-run homer in the sixth by Catcher Les Moss had given the Browns a 3-1 lead going into the ninth inning, but a pinch single by Thurman Tucker, a walk to pinchhitter Hal Peck, a sacrifice, and a single by Mickey Vernon tied up the game.

Cliff Ganin, who allowed the Tribe 10 hits, was charged with the loss. Satchell Paige, who entered the game in the final inning was credited with the win.

PAIGE TO RESCUE

Boudreau's double scored two runs to cap a three-run fifth inning for the Tribe in the first game. Dale Mitchell had opened the frame with a triple and scored on Larry Doby's single. Gordon then drew a walk to set up Boudreau's important blow.

Victim of the uprising was former Indian Bill Kennedy, who was charged with his sixth loss. Jerry Priddy also cracked Wynn for a homer in the opener.

Penn Auto Foe Fails To Show

Mansfield Penn Auto-Sporting Goods didn't win or lose its baseball game with the Galion Merchants yesterday afternoon. In fact, the Galion team didn't show up for its date with the defending state semi-pro champions at Blue Goose field.

The Penn Autos were scheduled to play the New London Merchants under the lights at New London. Don Hardy or Jack Hammett was set for the mound assignment

Today the Autos meet the Tiffin Mud Hens at 2:30 p. m. at Blue Goose. Lou Gregorio, who was slated to pitch against Galion, will probably be Lefty Deeds mound choice. Penn has won six of 11 games.

Brooklyn and New York Have Loop Leads Sliced

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK—(AP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees had their National and American league leads trimmed yesterday.

Brooklyn's advantage over the St. Louis Cardinals was slashed to one game and the Yanks' margin over the Philadelphia Athletics was sliced to four and one-half games.

The Dodgers were humiliated, 16-0, by their arch rivals, the New York Giants, while the Cards romped to a 8-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

New York dropped a 2-1 eleven inning decision to the Washington Senators as the A's rolled over the fading Boston Red Sox, 8-3.

The Senators' Clyde Vollmer singled with the bases loaded and nobody out in the eleventh off Joe Page to end the Yanks' five-game winning streak.

Sam Mele singled to start the winning frame. Mark Christman sacrificed and was safe when Jack Phillips fumbled the ball. Ed Stewart also bunted safely to set the stage for Vollmer's blow.

Eddie Joost and Alex teamed to spark the Athletics' triumph over the sagging Red Sox. Joost belted his 18th homer of the season with two mates aboard in the sixth to snap a 2-2 tie. Kellner restricted the Red Sox to six hits including Vern Stephens' 18th homer to post his 12th victory.

TAKE THIRD PLACE

The world champion Cleveland Indians took over third place in the American league from the Detroit Tigers. The Indians nipped the St. Louis Browns twice by a 4-3 score, the second game going ten innings, the Tigers were beaten, 8-4, by the Chicago White Sox.

Veteran Luke Appling slammed out four hits and drove in three runs to feature the White Sox triumph over Detroit before the smallest Sunday crowd in the history of Briggs Stadium, 14,830 fans. Aaron Robinson and Vic Wertz banged home runs off the Tigers.

Third place in the National League also changed hands, the Philadelphia Phillies taking over the slot from Boston by beating the Braves, 7-0, behind the five-hit pitching of Robin Roberts.

The Phils clubbed Johnny Sain for four runs in five innings to allow Roberts to breeze to his third shutout and his ninth triumph of the season.

The Pittsburgh Pirates turned back the Chicago Cubs, 7-3, to move to within a half-game of the sixth place Reds. Ralph Kiner ignited a four-run fourth inning rally with his 21st home run of the season. Little Vic Lombardi, although raked for 14 hits, went all the way for the Pirates to gain his third success.

Hawks Pound Athletic Club By 11-1 Score

Mansfield Hawks yesterday scored at will to defeat the Mansfield Athletic club team, 11 to 1, behind the five-hit pitching of Stokes at Tillman's park.

Home runs by Owens, Collins and W. Walker paced the Hawks seven-hit attack off Esker Jordan and Ralph Greer. Collins clubbed his homer with the sacks loaded while Owens blow traveled 380-feet, the longest of the season at Tillman's.

Stokes, who struck out eight yesterday, will try a iron-man stunt today by pitching the second game of a twin-bill against the Cleveland Carls. Cliff Robinson will pitch the first game which opens the show at 1:30 p.m.

CINCINNATI—(AP)— Jim Brink of Seattle and Mrs. Magda Rurac of Bucharest, Romania, yesterday won the singles championships at the 50th annual tri-state tennis tournament.

Taverns Knock Off Shelby Merchants

The Richland County Amateur Baseball league standings were jumbled completely yesterday as Butler and Shelby failed in attempts to tie the Mansfield Hawks for the loop leadership.

Mansfield T. & E. Tavern knocked off the Shelby Merchants, 5 to 1, behind the five-hit pitching of Ernie Tinkey while Lexington swamped Butler, 11 to 2. In the third league encounter, Lucas defeated Ontario, 7 to 3, to take over second place with four wins in six games.

The Taverns are now tied for third place with Butler, Shelby and Lexington. All four teams have won two and lost two. The Hawks top the circuit with three wins in four games.

T. & E. scored two runs in the third and three in the fourth to defeat Shelby. Catcher Joe Atton was the hitting star with a single and double, two runs and two runs batted in. Tinkey struck out seven and did not give up a free ticket to first.

In the second game of the double-header at Liberty park the Taverns dropped a 8-to-5 decision to North Fairfield. Mike Watchorn and Tinkey divided the mound duties in this one.

Lexington raked two Butler hurlers for 16 hits and took advantage of 11 home team errors to win the contest at Butler. Robert Wade set Butler down with eight hits. Vaughan Erickson led the Lexington attack with three singles and a double.

STAKE FANS 13

Don Stake cut down Ontario with seven hits and struck out 13. D. Switzer, the Lucas catcher, was the big guy with the bat with a single, two doubles and a home run. T. Sowers, the second Ontario pitcher, also hit for the circuit.

Today, Lexington plays Cardington in a non-league game at Lexington at 1:30 p. m. The second game of the twin-bill will pit Lexington against the Old Timers.

Kushin Cuts Two Strokes Off Record

Playing his first round of golf in six weeks, Carl Kushin yesterday took the crowded Possum Run links apart to set a new course record of 63.

The crack "A" league star was four under par figures on the first nine and came back in a 31—five under regulation. An injured back kept Kushin off the links six weeks until he "worked out" with Martin Fisher and Dick Classen yesterday.

The old record of 65 was held by Carl and Al Kushin, Joe Mayer, Bernie Mathias and Gene Carazen. Mathias had tied the mark last year.

Kushin did not slip over par on any hole as he racked up the nine pars and nine birdies. Going into the 15th hole, Kushin was shooting one behind the record However, he slammed through for birdies on the 15th, 16th and 17th holes and parred the 18th for the record.

Crowded conditions of the course failed to faze the new record holder. Possum Run Manager Irish McGee reported that more than 300 golfers played his course yesterday. Grant Hanawald clipped three strokes off par with a 69.

The score card:

Par Out	435	454	344—36
Kushin Out	334	443	344—32
Par In	345	444	435—36	36—72

Gorman-Rupp Slates One Game This Week

Mansfield Gorman - Rupp has only one softball game booked for this week.

The Pumpers will meet the Marion Smitty's Grill team here Wednesday night. G-R has now won eight games and lost six. Although the Pumpers are relatively idle this week, they will have five games the week of July 10.

Lefty Lanier Goes Monday

ST. LOUIS — (AP)—Max Lanier will get his first chance to prove he is still major league material today. The lefthander is slated to pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals against the Cubs in one of the two scheduled holiday games.

Lanier signed his contract with the Redbirds yesterday. He was the last member of the trio which jumped to the Mexican league in 1946 to return. Lou Klein and Fred Martin came back earlier and Klein already has earned a pay raise.

Lanier held a record of six victories against no defeats before he jumped from the Cardinals three years ago.

Buckeye Open Prize Bigger

CANTON — (AP)—A $1,200 first prize will be awarded in the Ohio Open Golf tournament at Shady Hollow course here in August.

The prize is $200 more than the top money offered at Toledo last year. The entire prize list of $3,250 also exceeds last year's purse.

The tournament will be held on the par-72 Shady Hollow course Aug. 22, 23 and 24, with 18 holes of play on each of the first two days and 36 holes on Wednesday, the final day. An 18-hole best ball tournament will be held on Sunday, Aug. 21, for amateur-amateur and pro-amateur partners.

Loudonville Wins 7th Legion Game From Willard Team, 6-1

NEW LONDON — Loudonville's American Legion junior baseball team opened competition in the fifth district tournament here Sunday with a 6-to-1 victory over the Willard juniors.

Loudonville spotted Willard an unearned run in the first inning but Pitcher Carl Young clamped down and scattered four hits over the nine-inning span. Loudonville has won seven straight this year and meets the winner of the Bellevue-Plymouth game here this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Dutch Knots Sam For Lead

WASHINGTON — (AP) — E. J. "Dutch" Harrison chased Sam Snead all day in the Washington Star open golf tournament yesterday and finally caught him with a 15-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th green.

This gave Harrison a five-under-par 67, and a first-place tie with Snead, who had a 69. Each has 202 at the end of 54 holes in the 72 hole, $15,000 tournament.

In third place, two strokes back, was the National Open champion, Cary Middlecoff of Memphis. Like Harrison, he had a 67.

Skip Alexander of Lexington, N. C., the champion here last year, was in fourth place. He had a 71, and a 206 total.

Ward Is Winner

AMES, Ia. — (AP) — Twenty-three year old Harvie Ward of the University of North Carolina won the national collegiate golf tournament yesterday with a 5 and 4 victory over Morris Williams jr., of the University of Texas.

Young Lefty Holds Key to A's Success

By TOM R. BRISLIN

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Venerable Connie Mack's dream for "just one last pennant" apparently rides today upon the broad shoulders of young Alex Kellner, his southpaw rookie sensation.

Kellner, with 12 victories thus far and hotter than a fire-cracker, is bearing the lion's share of the pitching burdens for the 84-year-old Philadelphia Athletics' pilot

The six-foot, 200-pound Kellner, who used to toss tennis balls at lightbulbs to gain control is tied with the New York Yankees' Vic Raschi in having the best record in the majors.

Unquestionably, it has been Kellner's surprising work so far that has kept the Mackmen riding in second place.

Kellner looms as an even greater key to the A's success for the balance of the season Right now he is about the only pitcher on the Athletics' mound corps who is neither ailing nor faltering Defeated only three times, Kellner appears in good form and good health, and that can't be said for the remainder of Mr. McGillicuddy's hurlers, talented though they admittedly are when right.

LOU IS OKAY

Dick Fowler, Joe Coleman and Carl Scheib haven't come up to Mr. Mack's expectations. Only big Lou Brissie has come near matching Kellner's performance.

Biggest disappointments to Mack, however, have been fidgety Phil Marchildon, two years ago one of the most feared righthanders in the league, and Bill McCahan, no-hit, no-run hurler in 1948.

Marchildon, for example, has only pitched 11 2-3 innings all season and turned in a miserable record of 11 walks, 14 hits and 11 runs.

McCahan hasn't done much better. In 20 innings he gave up nine passes, nine runs and 18 hits. Both are victims of sore arms.

That's why Mr. Mack's hopes for that "one last pennant" depend so much upon Kellner. If Alex can maintain his present pace, the Mackmen will probably stick well up in the first division down to the wire. They might even cop their first flag in 18 years

Legion Junior Team On Road

The Mansfield American Legion juniors will meet the Marion Legion junior team under the lights tonight at 8 o'clock in Marion's Ohio-Indiana league park.

The two teams opened the season against each other with Mansfield winning 3-2 as Gene Yohn doled out only five hits. Yohn will probably get Manager Dewey Durant's call under the lights tonight. Mansfield has won five and lost four this season.

The players will meet at 4 p. m. today at the Mansfield Legion home

This High School Outfit Doesn't Lose Ball Games

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—The 1946 St. Benedict's Prep baseball team was the school's worst team since the war—it lost a game.

Since then, however, St. Benedict's has been unbeaten. The Gray Bees—as they are called—now have a record of 61 straight victories and three straight undefeated campaigns.

They wound up the 1949 season with a doubleheader victory over St. Mary's of Elizabeth, N. J., three years to the day since the start of the streak on Memorial day, 1946. During that time, 20 games were won by shutouts and 16 more saw the opponents get only one run.

The St. Benedict's coach, Joe Kasberger, started tutoring the baseball team in 1931. During that period his teams have won 276 games, lost 36 and tied three. They've scored 2,862 runs to their opponents' 812.

His bull-like voice can easily be heard in all corners of St. Benedict's field—and adjoining yards. He attributes his teams' successes to practice, practice and more practice.

Starting with only one holdover from the 1948 team, Captain and Shortstop Harry Durkin, he molded the eager candidates into a club that kept the winning streak going and had only two one-run decisions. They piled up 241 runs to the opponents' 35 and had a robust team batting average of .371. One regular hit .271, another had .299 and the others ranged up to Nick Guida's .545.

Durkin, only player who has been in every game of the winning streak, compiled a .439 average this year to boost his mark for the three-year span to .425. A smooth, polished fielder who made the team at the age of 13, Durkin and pitcher Bob (Rube) Waldele are regarded by Kasberger as the best pro prospects on the squad.

Art Charette, an aggressive and speedy outfielder, stole home 11 times in 22 games.

Kasberger, who drills his team for hours on baseball fundamentals as well as such niceties of the game as pick-off and cut-off plays, still has a long way to go, however, before he can equal the record hung up by the man he succeeded at St. Benedict's. His predecessor, Ernest (Prof) Blood, coached the Passaic (N. J.) High "Wonder Teams" to 159 straight basketball victories in the early 1920's.

British Open Begins Long 5-Day Grind

SANDWICH, England — (AP) — The British open golf championship will begin its five-day, 108-hole grind today with the beknickered precisionist from South Africa, Bobby Locke, in the favorite's role.

Locke, whose short pants bulge with the money collected at the expense of America's top professionals the last two years, is a 6-1 choice in the bookmakers' latest callover.

Two Englishmen—Fred Daly, the 1947 winner, and Ryder cupper Charlie Ward—are next in favor at 12-1 and America's AMLL but classy delegation is strung out from there.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo Ohio, the 1948 British amateur titlist, and Johnny Bulla, the long-hiting pro from Verona, Pa., are best-liked of the U.S. invaders at 16-1.

Five other American pros are in the list of entries. They are Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J.; Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Art Clark of Huntington, W. Va.; Willie Hunter of Los Angeles and Sgt. Charles Rotar, formerly of Canton, Ohio, but now with the U.S. Army in Germany.

Two amateurs complete the eight-man American delegation. They are Bob Sweeny of London and New York, the 1937 British amateur champion, and Capt. Ed Kingsley, another member of the U.S Army forces in Germany who hails from Utah.

Indians Slate Talent Search

ZANESVILLE — (AP) — If you boys are avid baseball fans, but not outstanding ball players, here's your chance.

The Cleveland Indians announced yesterday they will conduct a talent search for promising youngsters to enter the business side of baseball.

Rudy Schaffer, business manager of the Indians, said the world championship club would sponsor a "youth week" here July 9 to 15. The talent search will be conducted to test youths in various duties at the home games of the Zanesville Indians. The Zanesville club is owned by the Cleveland Indians.

Schaffer said it will be the first talent search of its type conducted by any major league ball club. The boys will be interviewed July 8 and assigned duties for the games.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Fourteen pari-mutuel harness racing tracks in seven eastern states will distribute approximately $4,185,000 in purses during the 1949 season, which runs from April 30 to Oct. 30.

Claude Harmon's five stroke margin of victory in the 1948 Masters golf tourney is the largest in the history of the competition.

White Russian Stars In Jap Ball

By JOHN RICH

TOKYO — (INS) — The idol of Japanese baseball fans today is a big fellow who once caught the eye of the late Babe Ruth

He is Victor Starfinn, a pitcher with the local Giants. Ruth singled him out for praise during an All-Star tour 15 years ago.

Starfinn, like Ruth, is full of color The amiable giant, who stands six feet four inches and weighs 210 pounds, towers over his short colleagues as he ambles about the field

He adds to the effect with several gags he has developed in his delivery, such as suddenly turning his back completely on the batter before he throws the pitch.

Starfinn's size, however, is far from a funny matter when the club goes on the road. The players have to sit up all night on Japanese railroad coaches, and he finds his huge frame too bulky to get any sleep in the cramped seats.

Starfinn is a White Russian whose parents were forced to flee from the Urals He attended Japanese schools and began playing the Japanese sponge-ball variety of baseball when he was ten He says he always has been a pitcher.

It was in 1934 that his big chance came when he was brought to Tokyo to pitch against Babe Ruth and the touring American All-Stars From then until now he has been pitching from 40 to 70 games a year during the long league season. In 1940 he won no less than 45 games Starfinn is happy with his salary but smilingly refuses to say what it is "because the income tax collectors will be coming around soon."
